A Song, Then a Fight.
First Freight by Air.
Senator Bingham Alert.
40 to 80, Best Years.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

WHAT IMPRESSION did our civilization make on foreigners arriving in the Zeppelin when they landed and were "entertained" at Lakehurst?

We know what would have happened if the Zeppelin had landed from another planet among our cave ancestors 300,000 years ago. The entertainment would have been made up largely of fights, which would have been natural among cave men.

At Lakehurst the program of entertainment, which Dr. Eckener attended, read:

"Boxing, 160-pound class, four rounds.

"The Yankee rhythm boys.

"Boxing, 150-pound class, four rounds.

"The Darling Sisters, singing a patriotic song."

And so it went, a song and a fight, a fight and a song to the end.

It may be necessary even in these days of submarines, poison gas and air flying to make our soldiers and sailors box to amuse officers. But is it really necessary to force upon intelligent foreigners a realization of the part that prize fighting plays in our civilization?

Couldn't we, for instance, have two patriotic songs instead of one for each fight?

The Zeppelin brought the first air freight from Europe to America. Future Zeppelins of great carrying capacity may find usefulness and profit as freight carriers. Their air displacement is too great for them ever to be useful for speed.

The future air freight carriers, however, will not, like the Zeppelin, be covered on the outside with cotton that the wind can blow away.

They will be made of a metal, a mixture of aluminum and other metals, harder than the ordinary steel, lighter than this Zeppelin.

That has been accomplished already in theory. And our navy is building the first all-metal dirigible.

Congratulations to Senator Bingham of Connecticut. Sitting at luncheon in Washington, he saw the Zeppelin flying overhead and thought it the business of a senator to know as much as possible about such an airship.

He hurried from luncheon to the Anacostia naval air station, got in airplane, started after the big dirigible, passed it, landed at Lakehurst to wait for it to come down.

He will be able to tell other senators and the President, who saw the great machine flying over Washington, another machine like that, how frightfully it could have blown the Washington Monument, Lincoln Memorial, White House and Capitol, supreme court included, into fragments. We ought to think about that, and be prepared.

Benjamin Strong, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank, only 54 years old, dies of overwork and constant strain.

Business men ought to realize it takes 40 years to understand business thoroughly, and the years from 40 to 80 are needed to use knowledge acquired before 40.

In this campaign the Democratic party repudiates officially the old Democratic party low tariff ideas.

Governor Smith assures voters that he will give to labor and industry tariff protection that it requires.

Much of our labor and industry need more protection than they have now.

For instance, foreigners send into the United States, so this writer is informed, 1,500,000 tons of manufactured steel annually.

That does not mean competition with big steel companies only, but especially competition with labor, which labor realizes.

Every ton of manufactured steel made in America represents $30 in labor cost. Bringing in 1,500,000 tons of foreign steel means that $45,000,000 worth of work that might have been done by Americans has been done abroad.

There must be reciprocity, some opportunity for foreigners to deal with us, otherwise international commerce would stop.

But the tariff should be high enough at least to offset the difference between foreign and American labor costs.

Since the country must have airships, be thankful that the postoffice, under Postmaster-General New and President Coolidge, concentrates intelligently on the air mail.

Capt. Sumner Sewall, traffic superintendent of the British Colonial Airways, says this country, more than any other, has developed flying at night, dus almost entirely to the Postoffice Department.

Night flying is the most important flying for defense in air attacks on cities.

ECKENER'S MEN SPEED REPAIRS ON CRAFT FOR RETURN OCEAN FLIGHT

New York, Oct. 17 (INS)—The Graf Zeppelin may go back to Germany next week when repairs are completed and make a second trip to America later in the year, it became known today.

In the eventuality the first transatlantic passenger dirigible will not make any trips inland over America at present, said Hugh Allen, representative of Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the ship.

Decision as to [illegible] for [illegible] days [illegible] will be made [illegible] 24 hours, Allen said.

It is believed the Germans are anxious to get back home to exhibit the Graf Zeppelin to admiring countrymen. Literally thousands of messages of congratulations have carried importunities for a speedy return to Germany.

If, however, it is decided to make an inland trip now before the return

HOSPITAL CLEARED IN DEATH OF LITTLE GIRL

The death at Boston City hospital of Rose Mary McMahon, four-year-old daughter of City Councillor Thomas W. McMahon of Dorchester, was "an act of God and unavoidable," Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols was informed today in a report submitted by Joseph P. Manning, president of the board of trustees. The finding was based on a statement by Medical Examiner Timothy Leary.

Dr. Leary's report exonerated from blame the physician who performed the operation for the removal of adenoids and tonsils on the child, and declared a human being could have foreseen or prevented her death.

Dr. Leary stated his investigation disclosed the child was not neglected in any way, and that any question of death from hemorrhage can be absolutely excluded.

He said he had encountered nu-

MERCURY HITS 80 HERE ON HOTTEST OCTOBER 17

Following the hottest October night in the history of the local Weather Bureau, the mercury today, at noon, by reaching a mark of 80 above, smashed all existing heat records for this date.

The official forecaster predicts this sporadic outbreak of unseasonable summer weather will be effaced within 24 hours by a cool wave moving from the West but in the same breath hazards the guess that showers and abnormal humidity will cause further discomfort until this relief arrives.

Official forecast for Boston: Partly cloudy, probably with showers

Lady Astor Is in Hub; Hides From Public

Shrinking from a day at most from the public eye, Lady Astor, Viscountess Astor (Longfellow's Nancy Langhorne), of Cliveden, Eng., today arrived in Boston from Philadelphia.

With Mrs. Henry Worthington Bull of New York city she secluded herself at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel and asked that the public be refused her presence for the day at least.

Lady Astor will attend the Boston Hunt Club's Willowdale races tomorrow at the Bradley Estate, Topsfield, she will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., of South Hamilton.

M'DONALD, BRITON, IN SOLO ATLANTIC FLIGHT FROM HARBOR GRACE

St. John's, N. F., Oct. 17 (AP)—Commander H. C. MacDonald, English aviator, took off from Harbor Grace today in a moth type airplane in an attempt to fly across the Atlantic ocean to England.

MacDonald, who is 35, came to Newfoundland about three weeks ago and began strengthening his plane in preparation for the attempt.

Although he said he had but only 30 hours of flying he was confident that he would make the flight alone in the small plane.

Since his arrival here the young English flier has been awaiting favorable weather conditions.

He had declared that he would not take off until he had a "hunch" that everything was right.

100 TROOPERS MAKING WAR ON SPEED FIENDS

To curb reckless and careless automobile driving throughout the Commonwealth, 100 State troopers, divided into ten "flying squadrons," today began a crusade to enforce the motor laws in conjunction with Governor Fuller's "Save-a-Life" campaign during October and November.

Coincident with this step by Gen. Alfred F. Foote, commissioner of public safety, was the announcement from the State House that the Governor's Committee on Street Highway Safety will meet chiefs of police and chairmen of local committees next Friday in an effort to effect a State-wide co-ordination of all plans towards reducing the automobile death toll.

The "flying squadrons" dispatched to their posts today will operate on all highways in the Commonwealth and their daily destinations will be kept secret from the motoring public.

ABOARD the Graf Zeppelin, Oct. 12 (Delayed)—When Dr. Eckener's supper made an appearance, I thought it time to go. He put aside the tiniest morsels of bread, apple and any other tidbit for his canary bird, one of the three I saw a few evenings before our departure in the delightful winter garden of Frau Eckener.

I knew that he promised his sweet, dignified little wife to "look after" the yellow bunch of feathers until he brought it safely home to her again. He is certainly one of the outstanding characters of the age.

The shooting was done by a young Chinese, smartly dressed in American clothing, who threw his police positive Colt revolver on the floor and disappeared at top speed in the direction of Chinatown.

to Friedrichshafen. Allen said the big dirigible would visit Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Louis, and as many other cities en route as is desirable in keeping with weather and other conditions.

TO FOLLOW MAIL ROUTE

If a flight is made westward over the United States, two courses lie open to the Zeppelin. The most practical would be to follow the air mail route across Pennsylvania.

Officials of the Zeppelin company and Dr. Eckener himself are anxious to exhibit the successful transatlantic lighter-than-air passenger ship to as many persons as possible in the advancement of the cause of the Zeppelin as the ideal mode of travel.

Thus if weather permits Eckener would like to map his course across New York state. He would fly up the Hudson, Allen said, to Albany and then along the route of the Erie Canal and over Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo. The big dirigible would then be headed up Lake Erie to Cleveland and Detroit, whence it would continue westward.

Passengers would be carried between some cities on an inland flight if one is made, Allen said. He could not tell where stops would be made, but thought it likely the Graf Zeppelin would land at Detroit and St. Louis.

Everything about such a trip, said Allen, depends on a conference of Zeppelin officials with Eckener and officers of his crew which will be held sometime during the next 24 hours when time off from the series of fotos New York is tendering the German airmen permits.

RUSH REPAIRS ON SHIP

At the U. S. Navy air station in Lakehurst, N. J., the hangar where the Graf Zeppelin and the U. S. Navy's dirigible Los Angeles are berthed, is a human beehive of bustling activity today. More than 100 men, members of the Zeppelin crew, United States naval men and civilian employes—are co-operating in getting the Graf Zeppelin in shape for its next flight.

This it was pointed out, will probably not be started before Monday, as it will take at least three more days to repair the damaged left port horizontal or fin.

The fin has been stripped of the last square inch of fabric. About 3000 yards of new covering has been received and is being sewed together in large patches.

Three sewing machines are in operation for this work. Placing of these patches on the fin is expected to start this afternoon. Ten civilian employes, aided by a Goodyear-Zeppelin representative, are doing the work.

Meantime New York is honoring its Zeppelin guests in true American style. They attended a luncheon at the Advertising Club at noon today and later a reception at the German Club where, of course, they were congratulated with the fervor characteristic of the Fatherland.

BANQUET TONIGHT

Tonight a banquet will be tendered them at the Hotel Astor by the German-American Board of Trade. The speakers will include Mayor Walker, Senator Royal S. Copeland and Herman Von Lowenskiold, Germany's consul-general.

Most of the passengers who came over on the air-liner have reserved accommodations for the return trip, according to Ernst Brandenburg, under-secretary for aviation in the Ministry of Transportation in Germany, who crossed on the dirigible.

Meanwhile, the fliers will visit Philadelphia and Washington. They leave for Philadelphia late tonight for a reception by the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce tomorrow.

On Friday, they will have breakfast with President Coolidge at the White House.

New York's first day welcome to the visitors lasted until early today. The visitors attended a musical comedy at the Ziegfeld Theater, where the audience greeted them enthusiastically.

Then they went to another theater where they saw the films of the Zeppelin's arrival here.

BRITON TAKES OFF IN SOLO FLIGHT FOR ENGLAND

MacDonald said that the flight was being financed privately. He was assisted in preparing for the flight by A. F. Williams, a mechanic who accompanied him from England.

The take-off was at 1:23 p. m., Newfoundland time, or 11:31 eastern standard time.

WEATHER UNFAVORABLE.

Commander MacDonald, who is an officer of the British navy, had announced that he would not attempt the flight if the weather was not favorable by mid-October.

Reports received here from Harbor Grace today indicated that it was none too favorable when the young aviator determined to wait no longer.

His takeoff consequently came as a surprise. His little plane left the ground at the Harbor Grace airport at 11:31 eastern standard time.

The plane carried 200 gallons of fuel, which Commander MacDonald was confident would be more than enough to carry him to England. He expressed confidence that his experience as a navigator, gained during his naval career, would make it possible for him to pick his way over the Atlantic to his destination without difficulty.

PLANE LIKE A TOY.

Flight Commander MacDonald arrived from England with his Naviland Gypsy Moth plane on September 26 with the announced intention of attempting a transatlantic flight from Harbor Grace when weather permitted.

The plane he used is only a midget compared to Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis. Known as an aerial sports car, the Gypsy Moth had been secretly preparing at the Stag Lane airdrome in London for many weeks for the flight. It had a wingspread of only 26 feet and when emptied weighs less than 800 pounds.

Extra tanks were fitted to the plane, giving it a range of about 35 hours, sufficient for 3500 miles' cruising.

The engine has only 85 to 100 horsepower, compared with Lindberg's 250. It is a four-cylinder air-cooled motor. Tests have shown that it can run without trouble for periods of 24 hours and more.

AT MERCY OF SEA.

The Gypsy Moth is the plane in which W. L. Hope won the last King's cup for a race around England and is the craft taken by Capt. G. De Haviland on an altitude record-breaking flight for two-seater light biplanes.

The plane is too small for wireless in addition to its other load and floats would be useless to keep so tiny a machine afloat on the Atlantic rollers.

Commander MacDonald is comparatively a novice at piloting, although he is a skilled navigator. Yet after only eight hours solo flying he took a plane on a long successful flight through Europe.

HASSELL AND CRAMER GREETED BY HOOVER

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—Herbert Hoover today greeted Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, the two aviators who were forced to land in Greenland during an attempted flight from Rockford, Ill., to Stockholm, Sweden. Later the fliers were received by President Coolidge at the White House.

"I am very glad to have the privilege of greeting you," Hoover said; "of meeting men who have come through a great adventure with great courage and with success. We certainly welcome you to the United States. We are all proud of you and of all the citizens in our country who come from the same blood."

M'Donald on Trail to Death or to Glory

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—Flight Commander H. C. MacDonald is following a trail that has led numerous aviators to glory and fame, others to death and oblivion.

The last airplane to fly the North Atlantic from west to east—the preferred direction because of favorable winds—was the Friendship, which carried Amelia Earhart, Lou Gordon and Wilmer Stultz from Trepassey to Wales.

If MacDonald is successful he will join the select company of Charles A. Lindbergh, who is the only man who has made the solo crossing by air. Successful eastbound Atlantic flights have been:

The naval biplane NC-4, from Trepassey to Lisbon, with a stop at the Azores, in May, 1919.

Capt. John Alcock and Lieut. Arthur W. Brown, in a bomber from St. John's to Clifden, Ire., in June, 1919. This was the first non-stop flight.

Charles A. Lindbergh in his world-famous Spirit of St. Louis, from New York to Paris in one hop, May, 1927.

Francisco De Pinedo in seaplane Santa Maria II, from Trepassey to the Azores, a seven-day trip starting May 23, 1927. The plane landed on the ocean off the Azores.

Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine in monoplane Columbia, New York to Germany, a flight that broke the world's long distance record, June, 1927.

Richard E. Byrd and three companions in the America, New York to Ver-Sur-Mer, France, June, 1927.

Edward F. Schlee and William Brock in their monoplane Pride of Detroit, from Harbor Grace to Plymouth, Eng., August, 1927.

Author Will Again Head Judges of Women's Club Story Contest

SOME day an original epitaph will read: "Here lies a man who never wrote a short story!" What an industry it has grown to be—like mother's home-made doughnuts that the factories turn out by the hundred gross.

Still we ought to be grateful to the clubs for fostering the art; often they are responsible for bringing new writers into the limelight.

Mrs. Everett O. Fiske, chairman of the committee on art at the Boston Women's City Club, was clever in selecting, and fortunate in securing MacGregor Jenkins, author of several very valuable books on literature, to act as chairman of the judges in their short story contest, to be held in the near future.

Nancy Brewster

Mr. Jenkins is like a successful miner who can find gold or oil where no outward sign is visible. Last year at the club's contest he discovered that truly gifted poet ess, Mrs. Walter R. Hinkler. She was awarded first prize, and since then a number of her poems have been accepted.

When Mr. Jenkins told me that in 40 years he has met but three people whom he felt really had the "Divine Afflatus," I searched hurriedly for Mrs. Hinkler's small output.

JUST AS RECREATION

Here is a woman in very moderate circumstances, mother of five little children, does all her own work and writes poetry as a gentle recreation. Too sly to tackle the editors, and did not think what she wrote had any special merit. She would never have been heard of if Fate had not brought her and Mr. Jenkins together at the club.

SMART SET GREETS VON LUCKNER

Count Lectures at Symphony Hall for Benefit of Hub Dispensary

DEBS ARE LOVELY, DEBS are charming. Debs have a delicate hase of romantic possibilities hovering over them and very generally the haze is rosy enough to gain them, if not always the first event on the list, surely the second. They are still very important. A day couldn't possibly reach completion without their help but the advent of the very glamorous, adventure filled Count Felix Von Luckner and the lovely Countess Von Luckner gave added importance to a day fairly well distinguished. When the Von Luckners arrived in Boston some time last February imaginations were fired to the utmost by the strange tales and glorious episodes that seem to have surrounded the story-book life of the Count.

HIS ARRIVAL THIS YEAR was just as much of an event with an interesting touch added by his first public appearance at Symphony Hall for the benefit of the Boston Dispensary. Mrs. Robert Soutter, Mrs. Charles F. Weed and Mrs. Edward H. Warren headed the committee that sponsored the lecture. Boston's best made up a large part of the very thrilled and attentive audience.

ON HIS EARLIER VISIT the Count was feted and cheered, idolized and pedestaled by the throngs that crushed in to hear him at the City Club and at Harvard. This time a deeper feeling of appreciation tempered his audience. A spirit of "noblesse oblige" prompted his desire to talk for the benefit of the dispensary because of the service that ever serving institution rendered a German boy who came here years ago on the Princess Cecilia.

THE COUNT AND COUNTESS have been entertained, and were undoubtedly exceedingly entertaining at a dinner given during a recent week-end at William Mayo's delightful country place in Peterborough, where Mrs. Wilbur Grant, Mrs. Benjamin F. Pitman, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Pitman and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Brown were among the guests. Mrs. Philip Brown (Rachel Grant) has had the visitors as house guests in her charming home in Chestnut Hill.

THE EVENT OF LAST night reminds us of another scheduled for Thursday, November 8, at Symphony Hall, when Mr. Lowell Thomas will lecture on "Into Forbidden Afghanistan" for the benefit of Norfolk House Centre. Mr. Thomas' account of Von Luckner in "The Sea Devil" ties him up quite definitely with anything that concerns the sea-roving officer who provides a sense of adventure with every mention of his name.

NEXT MONTH'S SOCIETY-BENEFIT happening is sponsored by an interesting list:

Mrs. Karl Adams, Mrs. Edwin A. Atkins, Mrs. J. C. T. Baldwin, Mrs. John W. Bartol, Mrs. Percy G. Bolster, Miss Mary E. Bradlee, Mrs. T. G. Bremer, Mrs. Joseph T. Brown, Mr. I. Whittier, Mrs. George Wigglesworth and Mrs. W. S Youngmeb.

THE ABSOLUTELY FLAWLESS weather and the amazing beauty of the country have lured Mrs. George B. Dabney of Boston and Medfield to Woods Hole to be with her mother, Mrs. Henry Howard Fay, for the remainder of the week at magnificent "Nobska," the Fay country place. It is probably difficult to decide at just which season "Nobska" is at its best, but at the present part of October it certainly gleams with all the flagrant and subtle colors that the changing season dispenses with broad brush strokes. Mrs. Fay's activity in the summer community and her ready promptness to help and further any of the various philanthropies which hold her interest entitles her to a brief respite in the calm vastness of the Woods Hole estate.

AS FOR THE DEBS: CERTAINLY not last, and certainly not least! Jolly as ever, apparently untiring, as ready to follow ten events as two in a single day, 43 appeared at the Chilton Club yesterday to attend the luncheon given by Mrs. Roger Warner for Miss Ellen Potter.

IF FIRST PLACE GOES TO the smartest then Mrs. Warner herself comes at the top of the list. Slender and distinguished in a tailored dress of beige tweed, set off by a dash of warm brown, with a trig felt hat matching her frock, she was decidedly of the group as well as with it. Miss Potter looked her youth and charm in taupe silk with a same toned hat.

MISS RACHEL WARNER, although not yet a deb, wore a blue that became her interesting outdoor freshness. Miss Penelope Perry wore a silk frock of crushed cherry color with a small black hat. Miss Anne Robbins was in mauve silk with a similar shade of felt hat. Black was the selected note of Miss Joy Greene's costume, with a touch of silver metal and a faint sparkle of white Chanel jewelry to set it off.

BRALEY IS NEAR DEATH; RUGG UNDER KNIFE

While Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg of the Massachusetts Supreme Court is recovering from an operation at Worcester City Hospital, physicians in attendance upon his associate, Justice Henry K. Braley at the latter's home on Hillside rd., Brighton, today pronounced him to be in a serious condition.

Justice Braley is suffering from a nervous breakdown and has been confined to his Brighton house for the last four weeks.

The operation performed on Chief Justice Rugg removed an abscess which had incapacitated him for a week previously and his complete recovery is predicted by Dr. Royal P. Watkins, under whose care he now is.

GOOD YEAR FOR BAY STATE INDUSTRY

Massachusetts manufacturers have enjoyed a fairly good, and in numerous instances, an exceptionally good year in 1928, according to Frederick H. Payne, president of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, who addressed the 13th annual meeting of that body today at the Copley-Plaza.

The Associated Industries represent 1500 manufacturing enterprises, composed of approximately 200 different lines of production, and in the opinion of its president the calendar year of 1928 will go down in history as another twelvemonth of "normal peace-time prosperity."

To remedy admitted "spottiness" in the textile industries of the state, Payne recommended their readjustment to modern machinery methods, current style demands and efficient marketing systems.

NEED OF SHOE TARIFF

"All over the world," he declared, "it is simply a game of supply and demand, and in certain lines of textile corrective methods will be of little avail until the styles for women change.

"In certain Massachusetts textiles, where manufacturers have scrapped obsolete machinery, turned to fabrics in popular demand, modernized their marketing methods, properly styled their products, and given close attention to business, there have been encouraging 'comebacks' which enabled them to operate in black rather than red figures."

A tariff adjustment is the solution advanced by the speaker to sustain the Bay State shoe industry.

"There is no question that the large importation of shoes is rapidly undermining many of our Massachusetts shoe producers," he asserted, "and the only answer is a tariff duly that will enable the manufacturer to maintain the present wage scale."

NEW TAX POLICY.

A plea for co-operation on behalf of federal taxpayers towards establishment of a "settlement policy" in income tax disputes was addressed to the Associated Industries membership by Henry Herrick Bond, assistant secretary of the treasury.

"We believe that it is of primary importance that taxes should be settled by administrative means rather than by litigation," Bond declared. "Responses to the endeavors of the department to place the work upon this new basis have been gratifying," he continued, "but I am frank to say that for complete success this administrative policy calls for even greater cooperation on the part of taxpayers than has yet been evidenced."

AMERICAN ANTIQUARIAN SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

Worcester, Oct. 17 (AP)—At the annual meeting of the American Antiquarian Society the following were elected to membership: Resident members, George Frompton of Worcester, Lawrence Shaw Mayo of West Newton, Robert Lincoln O'Brien of Boston and Samuel Aiken Welles of New York; foreign members, William Searle Holdsworth of Oxford, Eng., and James Comly McCoy of Grasse, France.

Charles Lemuel Nichols of this city was elected president and Clarence Winthrop Bowen of New York a vice-president. Henry Winchester Cunningham and William Vail Kellen of Boston, Chief Justice William Howard Taft of Washington and Samuel Lyman Munson of Albany were chosen councillors.

COURT GIVES UNCLE CUSTODY OF ORPHAN

The fight waged for more than a year for the custody of Betty Wood Foresman, 2½-year-old orphan, between her father's relatives and her mother's folks, was settled in Middlesex Probate Court, when Judge Collis Campbell gave custody of the child to John F. Foresman, her paternal uncle.

Six petitions for custody had been presented to the court by various relatives on one side or the other and the latest two petitions, on which the judge's present decree was made, were presented by the paternal uncle, and by Mrs. William L. Hodges, a cousin of the child's mother.

HINT EARHART GIRL PLANS TO WED SOON

Wedding bells may ring soon for Amelia Earhart, first woman to cross the Atlantic in an airplane, and her Marblehead fiance, Samuel Chapman.

Amelia's mother, Mrs. Amy Earhart, has given up her apartment at the Denison House, stored her furniture, and has been staying at Sam's home, 172 Atlantic ave., Marblehead, since last Saturday, it was learned today. On Friday, Sam expects to drive Mrs. Earhart to New York—and Amelia.

"I don't know their plans," Mrs. Emily Chapman, mother of the young engineer-fiance, said today, "I do know that Sam is seeking a job that has a future for him, and if there is a definite date for the wedding he has not told me. You know Amelia and Sam never have told their affairs to their parents, so we may not know anything before the public does."

3 ON TRIAL IN STILL DEATHS

A man with a scarred face went on trial today in superior court at East Cambridge for manslaughter in the deaths of four members of his family and two other persons.

With head bowed, Francesco Gorgono of Newton heard the opening address of Dist. Atty. Robert T. Bushnell, telling the jurors of the still explosion of last January 30, which wrecked an entire building and killed Gorgono's wife, two children and his brother-in-law.

Gorgono, who still bears the marks of the injuries he received at the same time, is also charged with conspiracy to manufacture and sell liquor. On trial with him on the same charges are Samuel Lando and Joseph La Cava of Newton.

La Cava's brother, Salvatore, was also among those killed in the explosion. The others were Mrs. Gorgono, Helen, 3; Grace, 13; Thomas Gorgono, brother of Mrs. Gorgono, and Leonard Jackson, inspector for the Newton board of health.

Unwed Mother Cremates Child 'In Idle Moment'

Pittsburgh, Oct. 17 (INS)—Mamie Hecker, 18, unwed mother, today confessed, according to detectives, that she locked two children in an East McKeesport home and set fire to the place. One of the children was burned to death.

She told county detectives she locked Clara Peirson, four, and Sara May Hickey, six, in a bedroom of her foster-parents' home in East McKeesport, and set fire to a basket of clothing, leaving the children to their fates. She said she "didn't know why" she had done it.

BELL MEMORIAL TOWER

Proposed design for Alexander Graham Bell memorial tower in center of new B. U. buildings to be built between Commonwealth ave. and the Charles river.

This memorial to the inventor of the telephone will face the campus. Bell was professor of the mechanics of speech at B. U. and first exchange professor to England.

NEW B.U. GROUP TO HAVE BELL MEMORIAL

Plans for Boston University's new centralized campus on the university land on Bay State rd. are taking shape with the competition of architects' drawings of the new buildings to be erected along the Charles River. These were released by President Daniel L. Marsh in a subsidiary addition to his third annual report to the trustees.

The university land on Bay State rd. extends from Granby st. to a point half-way between Chiltern st. and the new Cottage Farm bridge, and lying between Commonwealth ave. and the Charles river. This means that the B. U. buildings will face Commonwealth ave. on one side and overlook the Charles on the other.

Last spring the university was granted permission by the zoning board to have their new buildings reach higher than the limit of 80 feet and reach a height of 150 feet.

In the middle of the proposed B. U. buildings will be a central tower which will be a memorial to Alexander Graham Bell, telephone inventor, who was a member of the B. U. faculty.

All of the 10 colleges of the university will be situated on the new campus except the school of law, which will retain its present site on Beacon hill because of its proximity to the State House and the courts.

JAPS ASK GRANT LIKE HENRY FORD'S IN BRAZIL

Para, Brazil, Oct. 17 (AP)—The State of Para has been asked to grant concessions to a Japanese company headed by Hachiro Fukahara under similar conditions to those governing the concessions recently made by Brazil to Henry Ford for colonization and the exploitation of rubber.

Fukahara has requested grants in various districts of the state, and if he receives the concessions will begin constructing the first immigrant station at Acara in November, with the possibility of ten Japanese families arriving about Dec. 1.

WOMEN VOTERS LEAD FOR ENGLISH CITY ELECTIONS

London, Oct. 17 (AP)—The municipal elections throughout England, Nov. 1, are expected to provide a clue to the results of the general election next year. While the new parliamentary register, reducing the age requirements of women voters from 30 to 21 years, is not operative until May, women have the right of local vote at 21, providing property conditions are fulfilled. This has given the women a slight majority in the local government registers.

5000 ATTEND 'LADIES' DAY' RALLY

Ladies' Day drew 5000 persons, the majority of them women, to the Young's Hotel sector today, for the regular Democratic Saturday rally and they heard prominent Democratic women laud Governor Smith and hurl stinging barbs at his Republican opponents.

It was the biggest and most enthusiastic of the meetings as yet held at the famous old Hub hostelry under the direction of ex-Mayor James M. Curley, who has established a Smith rallying center there.

The overflow throng filled Court st. and City Hall ave., hearing the speakers through amplifiers.

A feature was the introduction by Curley of Mrs. E. J. Vialle, 86, of Columbia ave., who registered today and will cast her first vote in November. She intends to vote for Smith.

"This venerable woman waited almost as long to vote as Hoover did," shouted Curley, causing a general laugh.

Mrs. Curtis Guild, widow of Curtis Guild, former Republican Governor, was on the platform as a speaker.

"If Al Smith were guilty of all the things the Republicans accuse him of, the people of New York would have held a "heckle party" for him long ago," said Miss Mae Matthews of Boston, one of the 11 women speakers.

She scored Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt.

Ten policemen were dispatched to the vicinity to keep Court st. clear for automobile traffic and Curley remarked that he had been informed that complaints had been made.

"We tried to have traffic diverted but this was refused," he said. "But despite a Republican Governor, police commissioner, fire commissioner and mayor, we'll assert our rights and enjoy them."

SMITH CAMPAIGN COSTS $2,555,353 TO DATE

Washington, Oct. 17 (INS)—Governor Al Smith's presidential campaign has cost $2,555,353.18 thus far, the Democratic national committee reported today to the House campaign funds committee. The committee, at its recent meeting, requested bi-monthly reports of political finances.

Collections by the Democrats have reached $2,758,193.04. Their original budget called for $4,000,000. Contributions from September 1 to October 15 totaled $1,539,441.70, of which $500,000 was a loan from the County Trust of New York.

10,000 IN PERIL AS SNOW BURIES ROCKIES; 2 DIE

Denver, Colo., Oct. 17 (AP)—Rising temperatures and rain today brought promise of relief from the mid-winter blizzard which has swept the Rocky Mountains for three days, claiming two lives, marooning seven persons on Pike's Peak and endangering hundreds of deer hunters scattered throughout the wild Colorado highlands.

The fate of many of the estimated 10,000 deer hunters caught in the brake of the unseasonable storm remained in doubt today.

DAILY TEA WAS REAL LUXURY

Men know him in connection with his Zeppelin business, with the fact that he might have been President of Germany now had he accepted a candidacy in 1925. But fewer knew him as I have been privileged to see him during the last week—the artist, the musician, the shrewd physiologist, the whimsical wit, the sweet-natured student and thoroughly lovable unspoiled giant of the country.

The night was short for all of us. It is hard to go to bed on a trip when each moment can mean something, and sleep is necessarily fitful when you are waiting for the next thing to happen.

For many of the passengers this was their first night on board a Zeppelin. For me, Karl von Wiegand, Theo Matejko, Roll Brandt and Walter Kieffel, it was the second, and we all remembered the previous cruel cold experience on the long trial trip over the North Sea and England.

But we need not have feared. One blanket was ample enough during the night. It was even inclined to be stuffy in the small cabins with the windows which do not open.

At 5:40 o'clock in the morning, Capt. Flemming came round calling out "Gibraltar" which turned us all out in greatest haste to see the famous "Rock" so curiously tunneled with passages carved through the hard stone.

SEES TANGIER

On the other side I could discern the twinkling beacon of old Tangier, the birthplace of my late husband, whose distinguished father, Sir John Drummond Hay was British representative in Morocco for 40 years.

I know Tangier so well that I could trace the quaint, picturesque quarters where evil is not even a man's span from wall. The sullen-looking Riff mountains rise in the east, through a whose chilling vastness I have heard the reverberations of Spanish guns.

We were a regular pajama party, jolly and bright even at that early hour.

A couple of the German officials were overcome by their night attire, but at the mighty paraded dressing gowns or distinctive hues.

Only Von Wiegand stalked about in a wonderful pair of purple pajamas, with long cut jacket frogged with golden yellow cord, which had no resemblance to "pajamas" as one usually imagines them, but suggested rather the sorgeous colorings and dash of some oriental potentate's state robes.

I was thankful that I had brought with me a lovely set of pajamas and long, warm neck to heel, all-covering coat, which I had bought in Peking last year. The figured black silk, embroidered with fierce, green-eyed Chinese dragons, the flaring orange borders that I had feared so much, seemed to me to be appropriately subdued in such circumstances.

Dettman dashed off sketch after sketch in soft chalks, while Matejko, in flowered gown, drew pictures of Von Wiegand bending over his typewriter, "carving out," to use his own expression, a dispatch which he hoped would reach New York in time for the morning papers.

VISIONS OF THE NIGHT

A huddled heap of blanket in the upper berth represented the sleeping commander, Rosendahl. From cabin No. 8, Matejko went to No. 9, insisting that the mercurial Kieffel lie still, unblinking, to give him a right view of a passenger enjoying the amenities of the Zeppelin's passenger service.

Gibraltar, Tangier and Ceuta were visions of the night. Grey dawn revealed Cape Spartel and Cape Trafalgar, the sentinels of Europe, guardians of the Mediterranean, watchmen of the Atlantic.

Sunrise came over the mighty ocean in shades of lemon, pink, mauve and blue.

Passengers who had anticipated monotony as soon as the kaleidoscopic land views had gone, found new amusement in scanning the horizon for ships, rare visitors in this part of the ocean, although later in the morning, as we neared the waters around the Madeira Islands, three o. four were sighted.

Two, one German and one British ship, were so close to us that through field glasses we could see the people on the decks.

Meals promised to become the main distraction of the day—that is what was anticipated. So far we had done astonishingly well, eggs, coffee or tea for early breakfast; soup, hot meat and stewed fruit for dinner; bread and butter, sausage and tea for supper.

Besides what each one had brought on his own account and pooled amongst friends. It was entirely informal, of course, a knife or fork more or less made no difference, a saucerless cup, plateless bread and mustardless sausage.

CABIN PARTIES

Midday dinner is the big meal all the same; up in the clear air over the sea one sort of keeps hungry.

In the afternoon we had little cabin parties. Groups of acquaintances whom previously I had harmonized got together and picnicked.

We had to, really, for the midday meal was hot and plentiful, but its effect seemed to wear off so soon, and by 5 o'clock everybody was ready for a spell.

Afternoon tea is not a German institution, and as a rule there is a great difficulty about getting hot water to drink on the airship.

Lady Hay Is Provided With Her Tea Every Afternoon

The steward, Hans Haring, always managed to produce a pot of tea for me about 4:30. Quite solemnly he said:

"You are English, tea is their national beverage. It wi. be a hard day when I deprive you of that."

We were rationed as to food, of course, for weight plays an almighty role in this aerial life. With a base of tea and a roll and all the luxury of the exquisite basket of dainties—a gift from Herr Alfred Wate-spiel, the very famous gourmet and chef of Munich—the success of the party was assured. Caviar, foie gras, fine pears, to the fragrant accompaniment of some 117-year-old cognac, which Herr Fellmy, the commissioner of Berlin, had presented to Karl von Wiegand.

Praises Rosendahl

Our contributions were worthy of each other, so we joined forces and held parties with Commander Rosendahl, whose character and personality is a decidedly fine propaganda for America, as long as the delicacies lasted.

The second day of our journey offered us not only the incomparable vision of Gibraltar by night and of sunrise over the Atlantic from the air, but later in the afternoon of the Madeira Islands glowing under the sunlight.

The first group of small, brown islands, with little towns nestling in the bay, appeared about lunch time, and it was not until an hour or so later that we came in view of Funchal.

I have been there four times. I visited South Africa with my parents as a young girl, but never imagined that the Islands were so lovely.

The intensely blue sea—deep sapphire blue than peacock coloring—was transparent to the very bottom round the extreme edge of the Island, so that the whole, the hue of the island itself, dolled with red-roofed villas, set in the blue green, black green sea, reminded me of nothing so much as the red-backed fiery opal. Another Zeppelin mail bag was thrown overboard, another and yet another.

Great outcry because half the passengers declared that the bags had fallen in the water, while the other half swore that the bags had landed safely on the promenade.

Wireless Kept Busy

Rolf Brand, the German correspondent, was gloomy for the rest of the afternoon. He had 2000 words in one of those sacks addressed to the German consul begging him to relay them to Brand's office in Berlin.

The wireless is mostly taken up with weather reports, and it is very difficult to send long dispatches, impossible in fact. The wireless service is another thing altogether. I personally fine propaganda for America, as long as the delicacies lasted.

Madeira was our last glimpse of land—from there we ploughed through the skies, and the infinite immensity of space. Sunset was even more spectacular and gorgeous over the sea than it had been last night behind the black Spanish rocks. I watched it from the navigation room in front until the darkness left nothing more to see.

It was proposed to "dance" after supper to the music of Capt. Ernest A. Lehmann's accordion, but I had been up since long before daybreak, and felt far, too tired to be the only partner for so many dancers as might feel inclined to taste the novelty of "dancing in midair."

A rencounted the sausage and bread and butter which would be supper and went to bed early. Although traveling in an airship is comfortable, almost luxurious, it is a strain on the nerves for those who have any set work to do—the constant vibration, the ever present hum of the motors, the changing altitudes, the desire to see anything and to miss nothing of the outside keeps one tense and alert.

I had been investigating, too, the mysteries of the aluminum structure inside the colossal canvas cover, walking with cat-like care along narrow gangways, peering through the square panes in the canvas "floors," at the mighty ocean beneath.

BRINGS SMILE FROM OVERSEAS

Lady Drummond Hay, only woman to make the Graf Zeppelin trip, smiling her greeting after she disembarked at Lakehurst, N. J. All aboard the air-liner lauded her as "bravest of the brave."

BRAVE AS WELL AS FAIR

DEATH NEAR WHEN GALE HIT SHIP

I saw where the officers sleep in the hammock-like cots, two of which are occupied by Robert Hartman and Joseph Meyer, the photographers, who generously gave up the cabin allotted to them in order that Dr. Eckener might have one to himself where he could rest in peace and solitude. He has installed his canary in the wheel—and I know he overfeeds it in his anxiety to make it happy.

The passengers are all happy and pleased with the voyage, voting airship travel far the best method for long transocean journeys.

Rocks Like a Cradle

The Zeppelin swings in space like a cradle, swaying gently to the lullaby of the winds on the silver canvas. The only one who is not actually enthusiastic is the American Gilfillan, who feels the privation of not being able to smoke. He says he smokes more than a hundred cigarettes a day, less Matejko, the artist, who is also a constant cigarette smoker, is being laudably brave about the matter, says nothing, gives no outward sign that he missed his indulgence, and works tremendously hard all day. Of course the others, too, enjoy a cigarette or cigar.

I myself will be pleased to enjoy a cigarette—with after dinner coffee once more—I guess I will be as glad to enjoy the dinner, and the coffee as the cigarettes.

We are getting rather tired of sausages and very tired of ham, so I tell those who have not been to America yet, about the fine oysters they will taste. Oysters in Germany are very expensive, they cost about a quarter apiece for tiny ones, and with no particularly good flavor, at that.

The Americans on the airship have promised them oyster feasts galore, and the Germans are grieving because they will not be in a position to return the compliment and offer to supply the liquor. We will arrive at Lakehurst a very "dry" ship. The wine is already running out, drinking water ran out the first day, for only 50 bottles of mineral water were taken on board in the beginning.

That means nothing. We are carrying fresh water in the form of ice, and always have several gallons as ballast.

Everything Topsy Turvy as Lady Hay Crashes Professor

From a placid acceptance of the amenities of comfortable passenger travel on the "Graf Zeppelin," bordering on monotony those who had not any specific occupation aboard a sharp gale at 3:35 just as everyone was having breakfast, gave us all a first taste of the perils of Atlantic air travel.

HIT BY A GALE

Since 6 o'clock I have been up, working in my cabin anticipating only one more day to finish writing before our arrival in America tomorrow. Everyone was gathered at the breakfast tables about 8 o'clock, toward the tail, than the airship, in a frantic attempt to right her, was pulled too suddenly upwards.

The stern went down deeper than the bow had done, the airship stood up at sharpest angle.

Unutterable confusion, chairs, tables crashed in a heap, Crockery slid to the floor, smashing the lovely blue and white Zeppelin chinaware, specially designed by Rosendahl. Coffee, tea, butter, sausages, marmalade, formed a glutinous mess and overspread the unlucky ones sitting with their backs to the stern.

CRASHES ARTIST

I, in my chair, slid the length of the saloon, cranning into the unfortunate artist professor, Dettmann, who in turn fell over Robert Hartmann's heavy movie camera, which fell full weight on Frederick Gilfallen.

This crash, which lasted only a few seconds, seemed much longer. I was seized with the unique desire to save my precious breakfast coffee, for which I had waited two and a half hours, but it only served as a first baptism of the air for the Spanish Col. Herra.

Shaking himself free of the unwelcome moisture, he turned back to look at the other tables, only to find the Prussian Minister Gruenisch literally bathed in milk, while others were endeavoring to save dishes with their hands covered in butter and marmalade.

Robert Reiner, aggrieved and surprised, received the artist Matejko in his lap. For a moment the absurdity of the situation overcame the realization of the peril.

Breathless moments passed, leaving not a few blanched faces, and the thought—we were facing death.

KNOWS NO FEAR

I know many of them must have considered me a superficial woman, ignorant of the danger in which we found ourselves during those few tense minutes, because I was not afraid. I have many tight corners and pinches during my years of travel, and knocking about the world it is a fact that I have proved that my constitution and mentality does not register physical fear. I have never known pain from physical outside effect, although I am highly strung.

The first impression was of the overwhelming ludicrousness of the sight before me. I laughed, to the resentment, perhaps, of those whose nerves were shaken, second impression, my own resentment at loss of coffee, third, idea to help clear up mess which was not improving the upholstery or the carpet.

The stewards had run in immediately, bringing baskets to collect broken pieces. Wilhelm Bock, the hero of the terrible air crash in a Heinkel plane D1220 at Amsterdam following attempted transatlantic aerohop, came to me with me, the first to turn to, and help stewards clear up the debris.

Count Zeppelin-Eckener immediately went out to the bridge, soon followed by Matejko. Some passengers went out and still doing nothing, saying nothing.

Canvas Ripped Off

Joseph Meyer and Robert Hartmann, cameramen, laughingly wondered which had suffered most from the breakfast mess, my cocoa or Gilfillan's head. I went on the bridge for a moment to watch Eckener and the officers working hard to bring out the airship from her predicament.

Later I told me that a sudden gust of wind had ripped off one-third of the canvas cover from the port side of the stabilizing wing. Rosendahl, who had been on the bridge since the first signs of the on-coming gale, looked grave.

Eckener, pacing up and down, Capt. Flemming was calmly drinking hot coffee from a glass. I must admit that I expected greater excitement and animation, for last year traveling to China by sea the ship met an ugly storm. The captain allowed me on the bridge to watch the officers fighting the elements. While waves washed over the ship, thunder roared, lightning flashed, as the small band of men, aided by science and mechanics, fought to stave off destruction of the cargo of human beings.

That's the sort of thing I expected to see on the Zeppelin bridge. Instead I found everything serious, responsibility conscious of the situation, but no outward emotion.

Lehmann preserved his characteristic cheery smile. Van Schille was ready with a greeting, Eckener looked serious, but I would have liked to have remained on the bridge where all the interesting part was happening, but they had need of all of the space to move swiftly and unhampered.

Send Call for Aid

In the miniature kitchen the steward was separating the debris of the smashup. Little groups gathered in the saloon, discussing event some were frankly pessimistic, especially "mystery passenger" Gilfillan who accosted me in the narrow corridor with the grim question, "Have you ever faced death before?"

Rolf Brandt and Walter Kieffel, German newspaper man, were disturbed because the wireless was unavailable for press reports, but it is needed all the time, or most of the time, for urgent weather reports. A group of experts, including Wilhelm Bock and Mr. Benkendorff, were gathered in a cabin talking over a bottle of wine.

The Spanish Colonel Herrera came out of the window. He is one of the most charming men aboard, but cannot speak anything but a few words of Spanish and French. So only a few of us can talk to him. Rosendahl speaks nice Spanish, and they pass the time occasionally discussing technical subjects.

No little air at the information that a message has been broadcasted for transmission to the American Navy Department asking for a surface boat to stand by and giving Zeppelin's position and anticipated course. Italian boat radio picked up message and asked if should come to assistance, but Eckener replied no need.

REJECT CHURCHILL AS A "BUILDING WORKER"

London, Oct. 17 (AP)—The Manchester branch of the Building Trade Workers' Union today sent to the executive council a demand that Sec. George Hicks resign because he accepted Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, as a member of the union. The branch charged that Hicks had brought upon the organization public contempt and ridicule" by permitting the entry of the chancellor, whose only experience with the craft of bricklaying had been a little amateur building on his own estate.

KELLOGG LAUDS HOOVER IN MINNESOTA SPEECH

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 17 (INS)—Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg in a speech today before the Ramsey County Women's Republican Club defended Herbert Hoover's record during the war while food administrator and urged his election because of his peculiar fitness.

"The personality, character and record of our candidate has a direct and important bearing upon the election," he declared. "I have nothing whatever to say against Governor Smith, but I ask you if there is any reason why he should be preferred to a man of the training, experience and vision of Mr. Hoover."

GOV. TRUMBULL FACES GRAND JURY INQUIRY

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 17 (AP)—A grand jury has been called by State's Atty. Alcorn to inquire into affairs of Roger W. Watkins, convicted embezzling investment broker, who formed the National Association Investors, Inc., sentenced to state prison for 14½ years on two counts in a long indictment resulting from his financial dealings.

He pleaded guilty last week to the indictment which also charged stealing $141,000 of the company's funds. His wife, Margaret, was given a year in jail, and Guy and Maynard Tressler, brothers-in-law, got shorter prison sentences.

All four persons are in county jail and their appearance lists today before the grand jury is expected.

In his review of the case Mr. Alcorn connected Governor John H. Trumbull, Lieutenant-Governor J. Edwin Brainard, Secretary of State Francis A. Pallotti, State Police Commissioner Robert T. Hurley and W. E. Egan, counsel for Watkins, with stock transactions in Watkins' concern.

Alcorn told the court Governor Trumbull had a "gratuitous profit" of $1150 on stock of the company, which claim was "supported by documentary proof in his office." A profit described in the same terms of $174 was credited to Hurley, Brainard, he said, had a profit of $72.20 and Egan he believed had profited by several thousand dollars.

OUT OF STEP WITH CUPID

GILDA GRAY

Film star and "hula-hula girl" who is being sued for divorce in London. Her hubby has filed "scandalous charges" against her. She has brought counter suit.

GILDA GRAY TO FACE CHARGES 'WILD AS HULA'

Los Angeles, Oct. 17 (AP)—A stack of documents said to contain "charges of a scandalous nature" against Gilda Gray, dancing girl of the stage and screen, today were on their way to London as the first step in marriage annulment proceedings ordered started by Gil Boag, her husband.

The documents were forwarded by Milton Golden, Los Angeles attorney, to his London agents, Cooper, King and Co., at the called request of Boag, who declared his intention of going ahead with the case in the British courts.

Both Miss Gray and Boag are said to be in London at present.

Boag, who for a time played the double role of husband and manager for Miss Gray, previously had announced that the annulment suit would charge pre-nuptial fraud.

Miss Gray filed a divorce complaint against her manager-husband in Port Washington, Wis., last July and left for London later to appear in films there. Later Boag also went to London and there came reports of a reconciliation.

Miss Gray's divorce complaint charged her husband with cruel and inhuman treatment.

CONNOLLY GETS YEAR IN N. Y.

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—A Supreme Court jury today convicted Maurice E. Connolly, former president of Queens Borough, and Frederick Seely, former engineer of sewer design, who were tried on charges of conspiring to defraud the city in the construction of the borough's $29,000,000 sewer system. The jury was out more than 24 hours.

Connolly, who resigned under fire last April after having been borough president of Queens since 1911, and Seely were indicted last June with the late John M. Phillips, sewer pipe dealer, of conspiring to profit from Queens sewer work.

Phillips died before the trial. Two of three original counts of conspiracy were thrown out by the court at the end of the state's case during the trial.

Justice Tompkins immediately sentenced Connolly to one year in jail and fined him $500—the maximum penalty. He postponed sentence for Seely until Saturday. Connolly indicated he would take an appeal.

KILLED AT WORK ON POWER LINE

Salem, N. H., Oct. 17—Fred Tonelli, 47, father of Fred Delmont Tonelli, Olympic hammer-thrower, was accidentally electrocuted here today while at work on his private power lines near Cruff's Crossing.

Passersby discovered his body on the ground. He was dead on arrival at the Lawrence General Hospital.

The deceased, a candidate for the New Hampshire Senate at the time of his death, had purchased electricity from the Lawrence Gas & Electric Company to supply, over his own lines, domestic and commercial customers in South Salem and Pelham and it was while engaged in making minor repairs to this system that he came in contact with the fatal current.

BRITISH FIRM WINS SUIT HERE

A jury in the Federal District Court today returned an alternative verdict of $35,000 for the plaintiff in a $1,850,000 breach of contract suit brought by the Gilbert Patents, Inc., London, Eng., against Smith-Wesson, Springfield.

The suit involved patent rights for an auto wheel manufactured by the Smith-Wesson company under patents held by the English corporation.

The alternative verdict was given so that in the event of a successful appeal to a higher court on the ground that the verdict was unsound as a matter of law, the decision may be reversed without recourse to a second jury trial.

EIGHT INJURED IN DOUBLE WORCESTER AUTO CRASH

Worcester, Oct. 17—Eight persons were injured today, two seriously, when an auto crashed into a parked car on Oxford st., Auburn. Paul Brauer, 21, of Hartford, Ct., who was driver of the first machine, according to police, was taken to Worcester City Hospital, as was Esek, Fonner, 22, of Jamesville, one of seven persons who were seated in the parked automobile. Both Brauer and Fenner have severe head injuries. The others, given first aid and taken home were: Harry Fenner, brother of Esek; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ferron of Princeton st., this city, and their children, Wilfred, 15, Irene, 13, and Francis, 9.

WANTS PUP TO QUIT KICKING HIS DAWG AROUN'

Detroit, Oct. 17 (AP)—A dog's master assumed the role of fair-play friend and appeared before the City Council of Wyandotte, a suburb, with a plea that his dog be protected from "lickings" administered by a neighbor's dog.

John Campbell pleaded that his dog was 10 years old and no match for his neighbor's younger canine. The latter, he said, has been trouncing his veteran pet regularly. A legal question as to how far the council could go in protecting one dog from another was referred to the city attorney.

SPECIAL MATINEE OF "THE SILENT HOUSE" FRIDAY

There is going to be a great gathering of theatrical folks at the Majestic Theater Friday afternoon, the occasion being a special matinee of "The Silent House," given for the benefit of the Actors' Fund of America, sponsored by the Actors' Equity Association.

As the management has adopted a popular scale of prices, running from 50 cents to $1.50 for the best seats there is no question but what the public will avail themselves of this opportunity.

Moon May Crash Earth Some Day, Says Lodge

London, Oct. 17 (INS)—Visualizing the time when the moon may collide with the earth and destroy all life on the planet, Sir Oliver Lodge, the British scientist-inventor, declared in a lecture before a group of English collegians that forces are at work upon the moon to make it return to its parent body—the earth.

Similarly, he said, that in a few thousand years the moon of the planet Mars may crash upon the surface of its parent body—Mars. But the people of this planet need have no fears, Sir Oliver believes that it will be several billion years before there is danger of a collision with the lunar body.

"The moon was once a part of the earth," Sir Oliver said, "and was split from it. It was pulled away from it. The action which broke it away will tend to push it farther away for a time, but the solar tides, which are produced by the sun, will gradually pull it back again and make it approach the earth."

Suspects United States

London, Oct. 17 (INS)—Samuel Samuel, M. P., manager of the Shell Transport Company, declared in a speech that England "could not trust the United States." He charged that America is trying to dominate Great Britain.

ADAMS HOUSE OPEN AS G. O. P. HEADQUARTERS

The opening of Hoover headquarters for noon-day rallies in the Adams House and in Scollay sq., together with a rally for R. Loring Young and Frank G. Allen by wool merchants in a Summer st. warehouse, today marked the continuation in Boston of an intensive Republican drive for election success.

The midday party rendezvous in the former main dining room of the Washington street hotel was attended by more than 200.

Uncompleted installation of amplifiers at the Scollay sq. headquarters of the Hoover forces halted the scheduled meeting there, but officials reported scores of callers for party literature and posters.

At the Adams House Maj. Roland M. Choate, defeated candidate for state auditor, predicted 100,000 Massachusetts World War veterans would vote for Hoover and asserted 50,000 had already signified their intention of doing so.

"The Republican party," he told its listeners, "needs no wrecking crew to follow its candidate and repair the party platform after he has spoken."

Speaking at the summer st. rally organized by his wool industry associates, Lieutenant-Governor Allen declared his allegiance to the policy of administration laid down by Governor Fuller and his three Republican predecessors in that office.

"Republican victory in this State," he declared, "will mean nothing at all unless the party proves of service to our citizenry."

R. Loring Young at the Adams House took a fling at the speech of Governor Smith last night in Missouri by admonishing the New York executive to "get his figures right" when discussing the Coolidge party regime.

The rallies inaugurated today are under the auspices of the Massachusetts Republican Club and will function daily until the close of the current campaign.

2ND CHINESE IS SHOT IN HUB TONG WAR

alley in the rear of his shop, bagged that he be taken to the hospital in a patrol wagon as a protection against being shot again, and refused to reveal the identity of his assailant.

He was rushed in a police touring car to City Hospital, where it was stated he will recover unless [illegible] poison sets in.

The wounded Chinaman previously had stated that his life had been threatened and had protected himself with an automatic pistol and an extra clip of cartridges which were within reaching distance of the spot where he stood at his work bench.

The shooting occurred when a number of persons were in the vicinity, and less than 24 hours after Lee Wey Kin, also a no-society laundry man, was slain in his shop at 2A Concord sq.

At dout the time of the shooting of the Shawmut ave. Chinese, Harry Lamb, alias Lam Poy, and Ung Hung Yen were arraigned in Municipal court charged with their murder of Lee Wey King and were held without bail until October 25.

ASKED TO JOIN TONG.

According to Peter Wadoski, owner of the building at 747 Shawmut ave., who lives upstairs, he heard an argument in Hong's shop last night. This morning he asked the laundryman the cause of the dispute and was told it resulted from an effort to induce him to join a tong.

The name of Charlie Dong, East Cambridge laundryman, who yesterday appealed to the police for protection, was mentioned during the argument, Wadoski said. Police after the shooting found Dong's name written in Chinese by the victim.

Robert E. Weymouth of 43 East Springfield st. said he was standing on the curb within 30 feet of Hong's shop when a Chinese about 30 years old, wearing a brown suit, and brown soft hat, and carrying a smart topcoat on his left arm, entered the laundry.

Without any preliminary conversation the stranger drew a revolver and fired two shots into the laundryman who was busy at his bench. The gunman then dropped his weapon and ran out the front door, turning into West Concord st., crossing to Custom st., then to Rutland st. and on to Washington st., being last seen at the corner of East Canton st., where he was apparently heading for Chinatown.

FOUND WOUNDED IN ALLEY

The wounded man made his way to an alley in the rear of his shop, where he was found by Officers George Smith and John Devine of Station 5 and taken to the hospital.

Shortly after arriving he told Inspector James A. Dennessey he knew the man who shot him, but when a Chinese interpreter appeared at the hospital Hong denied all knowledge of the identity of his slayer.

Police found the gunman's weapon, a new revolver, on the floor, and the automatic of Hong, also new, under a shelf on the work bench in his shop. Nearby was an extra clip of cartridges. They also found on the floor Hong's pocketbook containing several nearby addresses.

At about the same time the Somerville police were informed over the telephone by a woman that she had seen two Chinese, one of them with a gun in his hand, behind the laundry of Charlie G. Hong, 37 Summer st., Somerville.

Hong, said to be of the Hip Sing Tong, has barricaded his shop every night since the recent warfare broke out, police say. Officers went to the laundry, but could find no trace of the gunmen.

The Somerville police were ordered to watch all laundries, and to question and search all suspicious-appearing Chinese, particularly any seen in automobiles or taxicabs.

READY TO REPEL RUM FLEET

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 17 (AP)—All available coast guard patrol boats were ordered into the Niagara river today to repel invasion of rum runners from the Canadian side.

Lieut. Martin W. Rasmussen, district coast guard commander, said his men were working in eight-hour shifts and that liquor smugglers were being watched day and night. "If they break for this side we will get them," he said.

A checkup by the commander showed 30 or 40 boats lined up along the Canadian side awaiting a heavy fog or a black night to make the dash across the river to the American side with their cargoes.

HICKMAN TO BE PUT IN DEATH CELL TONIGHT

San Quentin, Cal., Oct. 17 (AP)—William Edward Hickman, sentenced to hang Friday for kidnaping and slaying Marian Parker last December, is to be transferred tonight from his cell in condemned row to the death chamber adjacent the room in which he will be executed. It was said Holohan had decided to convoke a board of physicians to pass on the youth's sanity. Governor C. C. Young is denying appeals of Hickman's attorneys and father, said the warden's decision ended Hickman's last chance of escaping the noose.

U. S. Radio Audience Is Estimated at 41,000,000

New York, Oct 17 (AP)—The radio audience of the United States is figured at 41,453,496 in a survey for the National Broadcasting Company. Canvassers visited 17,098 families in different sections of the country.

From their reports the total number of families owning radio sets was calculated on a percentage basis, and this was multiplied by 4.5 as the average number of persons in a family.

MAN AND WIFE HELD IN DEATH OF "OTHER WOMAN"

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 17 (AP)—An alleged love affair between Charles Rhyer, real estate operator, and Mrs. Genevieve Stutz, beauty parlor operator, was investigated today in the murder of Mrs. Stutts in Elkhart. Rhyer and wife were arrested following identification of Mrs. Stutts's body, found with skull crushed and two bullet holes in the breast. Mrs. Rhyer said that in March she hired J. Harver Smith, a private detective, to get Mrs. Stutts out of the city and break up her suspected relations with Rhyer. "But I didn't plan it that way," Mrs. Rhyer insisted. First degree murder charges will be filed against Mrs. Rhyera and Smith, Prosecutor Glen Sawyer said.

50 FLEE BACK BAY FIRE

One woman was rescued when overcome by smoke and 50 persons were driven to the street in night clothing when fire broke out in the five-story brick apartment house at 73 Westland ave., Back Bay, today.

Mrs. Mollie Lane, 40, who lived with Mrs. Lenora Jones on the third floor, was taken to safety by two lodgers after she had collapsed.

The fire, said to have been caused by spontaneous combustion, started in the second floor apartment of Mrs. Alice Aldrich and filled the entire building with smoke. The damage was estimated at $2000.

Among those forced to flee were Mrs. Catherine McIntyre, third floor; Mr. and Mrs. John Nugent, fourth floor, and Miss Rose Anderson.

merous similar cases of deaths following operations by prominent physicians who were leaders in their profession.

"AN ACT OF GOD."

"A medical man is a human being, he concluded, "and we have come to recognize that this form of death is just as much an act of God as one which follows a stroke of lightning."

The trustees' report, made following a rigid investigation at the hospital, stated that everyone who had come in contact with the McMahon child was closely interrogated.

"We are convinced the death of the child was unavoidable," it continued. "Thec hild was examined by the hospital pediatrician and an X-ray of the chest taken, which showed no evidence of an enlarged thymus. The child was then taken to a well-equipped operating room and operation was performed by a competent physician, a young man with large experience in this particular field.

NOTHING UNUSUAL

"There was nothing unusual or difficult in the operation itself, and the child was returned to the recovery room in good condition. The recovery room contains six beds and is cosy. The child was visited by the attendant nurse at frequent intervals.

"The child was apparently making normal recovery from the ether and in response to a question from the nurse said her throat was sore.

"About 15 minutes following this visit another visit showed the child to be somewhat cyanotic and apparently in extremis. The head nurse was hastily called and service summoned.

"Quick response was made and every effort made to resuscitate the patient. Only a small spot of blood was found on the pillow.

DEATH UNAVOIDABLE

"It will be seen by the enclosed report of Dr. Leary that this death was one that gave little or no warning and in the present state of our medical knowledge was unavoidable.

"While we deeply regret it we cannot feel that under the circumstances this institution is in any way responsible.

"In the past five years up to Sept. 1, 1928, 10,594 operations for adenoids and tonsils have been performed, and the records show that out of this number three died, the present case making four.

"Investigation disclosed that the soiled linen referred to as being on a food truck was on a dressing carriage and not on a food truck.

"In our efforts to exterminate bugs and vermin we have paid to outside agencies up to Sept 1, 1928, $1790, and for insecticides purchased and used by hospital employes, $1932.15. Three men are constantly employed in this work."

WILSON TO INVESTIGATE.

City Councilor Robert Gardiner Wilson of Dorchester announced that he would make a personal investigation of conditions at the hospital tonight.

"I will question the patients because I feel that no person, whether it be a member of the Council or the mayor, should either condemn or give a clean bill of health with out thorough investigation.

John J. Fitzgerald, chairman of the Council committee, announced today that the committee would set a date for the public hearing next Friday.

THOUSANDS TRY TO REGISTER

missioner's offices were opened today.

Besides the City Hall offices, outlying registration centers will be open tonight from 6 until 10 o'clock, at which hour all registration for the November election ends.

A record State vote of more than 1,500,000 was predicted today by Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook, basing his estimate on the supposition that 1,600,000 will be registered.

With the intense interest that exists in the present campaign, 95 per cent. of the total may be expected to cast ballots, according to Cook. The secretary sent out sample ballots today to various political organizations.

Women predominated in the registration today in Boston, as they have on previous days. They have outnumbered the men by fully one-third, according to Chairman Selbech of the election commission.

A force of 96 clerks was kept busy handling eligibles, several hundred of whom were waiting at the doors at opening time. A like number of clerks will be on duty at the other registration places this evening.

Secretary Cook has mailed to city and town clerks 75,000 absentee ballots, a 25 per cent increase over the number mailed four years ago.

Ex-Hub Convict, 64, Going 'Straight' After Half Life in Prison

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—George (Humphy) Williams, 64, who has spent nearly half his life in prisons, was freed from Tombs Prison today after assuring Judge William Allen in General Sessions Court that he was "through with crime."

Without funds, although he estimated he had obtained upwards of $250,000 through his infractions of the law, Williams was taken away by two Salvation Army officials who said they would provide for him.

Williams was released last month from Charlestown, Mass., prison after serving a term for a Boston safe robbery.

'MAY INHERIT CANCER'—MAYO

Chicago, Oct. 17 (INS)—Cancer is hereditary. There is no cure for it in the advanced stages, but it can be eradicated in early symptom stages.

Dr. Charles Mayo, head of Mayo Brothers' clinic at Rochester, Minn., addressed 3000 nurses and workers of the American Public Health Association in annual convention here today on the subject of cancer.

"Our mission is to educate the public to know the symptoms of cancer, and, once knowing, begin then to start a campaign to rid humanity of this malicious and death-dealing disease," Dr. Mayo said.

SLAYER OF TWO FASCISTI TO FACE FIRING SQUAD

Lucca, Italy, Oct. 17 (AP)—Michele Dalla Maggiore, a Communist, who assassinated two Fascisti, has been sentenced to execution by a firing squad. He is the first person condemned to death in Italy since 1880. The execution will be in the form usually reserved for war-time traitors. Maggiore confessed he had killed the Fascists because of their politics. An accomplice named Spadoni, sentenced to 18 years' imprisonment, confessed he provided the explosives.

PLAN BUSY DAY FOR HOOVER IN NEW YORK

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

Washington, Oct. 17 (INS)—Herbert Hoover today continued to work upon his New York address, to be delivered Monday night at Madison Square Garden. He will experience a strenuous day on his visit to New York city as Republican leaders of the Empire State have arranged a heavy program of conferences for him.

The nominee will arrive there at 8 a. m., going immediately to the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, which will be his headquarters during his stay.

After a press conference at 10 o'clock, Hoover will meet delegations of various racial groups. The Republican organization leaders will call on him at 12:30 o'clock and then he will attend a luncheon given by Charles D. Hilles, the Republican national committeeman.

PROBLEMS OF BUSINESS.

Then he will rest until 4 o'clock, when he meets delegations of the Republican service league organizations of the State. He will attend a private dinner and speak at 9 o'clock in the Garden.

As announced last week by International News Service, Hoover will discuss the relationship of government to business and their mutual problems. He has touched on this subject frequently since the campaign opened, but his New York address will be his major bid for the support of organized industry.

DAWES TO SPEAK.

Vice-President Charles G. Dawes will take the stump for the first time during Hoover's visit to New York. Dawes will speak at the Hoover store at 19 East 48th st. at 5 o'clock, and then appear upon the speaker's platform with Hoover at the great Republican rally that night. Dawes will then go on an Eastern tour for Hoover.

Charles Evans Hughes, standard-bearer in 1916 and a "big gun" in the Republican offensive, meanwhile will take the stump for Hoover on a Western tour. Hughes will speak first in St. Joseph, Mo., on October 23, going then to Chicago for a speech the next night. His later dates include Buffalo on October 26, Worcester, Mass., October 29, and Brooklyn, November 1.

SOVIET PRESSES FLOOD COUNTRY WITH MONEY

Moscow, Oct. 17 (INS)—Soviet Treasury printing presses are turning out thousands of new notes, causing the greatest inflation of the Russian ruble since the chervonets, equivalent to 10 rubles, was established several years ago.

The state bank values the ruble today at only 47 kopecks, or 21 cents. It is supposed to be worth 100 kopecks, or 51 cents, according to the banking law. The resignation of A. L. Schiehtman, the greatest financial authority in the Soviet Union, as director of the State Bank, was caused by the decision to keep on printing ruble notes.

GIRL, 18, IN TEST FOR ENDURANCE FLIGHT

Waterbero Airport, N. J., Oct. 17 (INS)—Preparatory to her attempt to set an endurance record for women flying solo, Mrs. Martha Bevins of Ft. Worth, 18-year-old wife of Oakley Bevins, was to begin a test flight in her Curtiss-motored Challenger biplane today.

She expects to remain aloft about three hours. The endurance flight, scheduled for Sunday, will be attempted under the auspices of the second annual New York national airplane show and air circus.

NEW HAMPSHIRE QUAKE CAUSES NO DAMAGE

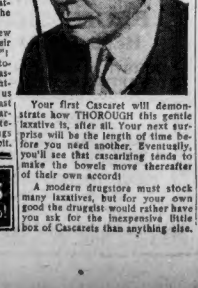
Nashua, N. H., Oct. 17 (INS)—A checkup today showed no damage had been done by earth tremors in several sections of New Hampshire.

A number of villages in the southern part of the State were disturbed by the tremors. The tremors were accompanied by what was described as thunder. At Milford and Wilton a slight ground tremor was felt, and at Amherst a rumbling noise was heard.

REVERE SERGEANT GETS HIGHEST MARK IN EXAM

Sergt. Cornelius F. Cronin of the Revere police department was notified today by the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission that he had received the highest mark in the recent examination to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Lieut. Thomas O'Hara.

Cascara is Your Doctor's Choice



When physicians pronounce cascara the PERFECT laxative—why experiment with things that lash the system into action? Cascara, you know, is the bark of a tree. A natural and normal stimulus to the bowels.

The Indians, who used to chew this bark, had no word in their language that meant "constipation"!

Perfect regularity is possible today, and to all of us. We have cascara in ideal form; the very delightful-tasting candy Cascaret gives us pure cascara. It has helped at least a million people to habitual regularity. Millions of others, unfortunately, have stuck to stronger things and acquired only the laxative habit.

Your first Cascaret will demonstrate how THOROUGH this gentle laxative is, after all. Your next surprise will be the length of time before you need another. Eventually, you'll see that cascarizing tends to make the bowels move thereafter of their own accord!

A modern druggists must stock many laxatives, but for your own good the druggist would rather have you ask for the inexpensive little box of Cascarets than anything else.

POWER TRUST WITNESSES DEFIANT

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—After two witnesses from the Electric Bond & Share Company had refused today to answer questions put to them in the Federal Trade Commission's power investigation, Commissioner McCulloch served notice that the commission would take recourse to law to compel representatives of the company to give the information desired.

A. E Smith, comptroller and assistant secretary of the Electric Bond and Share Company, refused to answer certain questions and to produce certain documents after the validity of the subpoena for his appearance had been challenged by John F MacLane, counsel for the company.

Despite the overruling of counsel's objections by Commissioner McCulloch and a specific direction to answer the questions, Smith several times declined point blank to comply "on advice of counsel."

Smith specifically refused to produce the operating expense ledgers of his company.

Robert E. Healy, the commission counsel, then asked what expenditures had been made by the company "to influence public opinion on municipal ownership." This and several similar questions brought no response from the witness. Another question was whether any payment had been made by the company to officers of subsidiary companies controlled by the Electric Bond and Share Company.

Smith was followed on the stand by Ralph B. Feagin, of New York, a vice-president of the Electric Bond and Share Company. MacLane resumed his objections to the examination on constitutional grounds and these were again overruled. Contrary to Smith, who had said he could give no information as to whether the Electric Bond and Share Company and the Electric Bond Securities Corporation were controlled by the same officers, Feagin said the respective administrations were "substantially the same."

JOLSON AND HIS BRIDE HERE, OR MAYBE THERE

New York, Oct. 17 (INS)—Whether Al Jolson and his bride, Ruby Keeler, ingenioet among tan dancers, were here in Paris or on the ocean was Broadway's biggest mystery today.

The mammy singer's new mother-in-law, Mrs. Nellie Keeler, was on the pier. The Ile de France came in but the honeymooners did not. Nor was there any message from them.

Mrs. Keeler refused to believe the couple was not aboard the French liner and entrenched herself in the main saloon with the avowed intention of "waiting for them."

Maurice Chevalier, the Al Jolson of France, told Mrs. Keeler that Al and Ruby had missed the boat and showed her a radiogram from the blackface comedian saying that they had missed the boat by six hours.

There are some along the main stem, however, who whispered that Jolson and the cute Ruby slipped off the liner unobserved.

BORAH IN FINAL APPEAL TO NO. CAROLINA VOTERS

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 17 (AP)—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho will make his second and final appeal here tonight to the voters of normally Democratic North Carolina to support Herbert Hoover's presidential candidacy. The appeal will be broadcast over the nation by a coast-to-coast radio hookup. After a day of conferences with Republican leaders the senator will speak to a crowd which it is anticipated may exceed any other of his campaign trip to date through Virginia and North Carolina. "I am working only for Hoover's election," Borah declared. "I am particularly interested in the individual, and, if he were not the nominee, I would not be here."

WIFE OF MURDERER IS BRUTALLY SLAIN

New York, Oct. 17 (INS)—A young woman identified as the wife of Leo Gordon, facing a death sentence in Kansas City for the killing of a policeman in a bank robbery, was found murdered in bed today in her apartment in Queens.

The pretty blonde girl's throat was slashed, her skull fractured and her face severely battered.

Near at hand were the instruments of death—a bread knife, flat iron and a short-handled hammer, all stained with blood.

HELD IN $10,000 ON 13-YEAR SLAYING

Grant Barrington, Oct. 17—Judge Walter B. Sanford, in the district court, set bail at $10,000 in the case of Fred Richards, who is held in the Berkshire County jail on a charge of murder of an unknown man, 13 years ago. Bail was fixed following a hearing on a motion filed Thursday by Atty. W. Taylor Day, counsel for the defendant. No one appeared in opposition.

ENGLAND TO PUBLISH FRENCH NAVAL PACT

SMITH OFF FOR CHICAGO; DUE IN HUB NEXT WEEK

Sedalia, Mo., Oct. 17—(AP)—A tentative speaking itinerary for Gov. Smith for the final weeks of the campaign, it was indicated here today, calls for addresses in Boston and Philadelphia next week, and Baltimore, Newark, Brooklyn and New York city for the final week. The itinerary would take the nominee in Boston next Wednesday or Thursday.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
(International News Service Correspondent.)

Sedalia, Mo., Oct. 17—Governor Al Smith closed his border states tour today firm in the belief that they would have Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri and Oklahoma—been won to his banner.

He faced eastward again happy and confident. When he left rural Missouri today for Illinois he was fortified with assurances from state leaders that if there ever had been any doubt about Missouri's 18 electoral votes that was none now.

Al Smith is a political realist. He was reared in the school of practical politics. Consequently he does not take every report turned in by exuberant and enthusiastic local chairmen at face value. But he sincerely believes he has won the border country.

He has been told so by the leaders in every state he has been in on the present tour and, rightly or wrongly he believes those reports.

REAL BID FOR ILLINOIS.

Ahead of the New York Governor as he faced eastward today is Illinois and his own Atlantic seaboard where he feels at home. The West, with its unfamiliar territory, and the border country, with its baffling cross currents of religious and prohibition complexes, is behind him. From now on it is eastward he; so far as the Smith campaign is concerned.

Governor Smith is going to make a real bid for Illinois and its 29 electoral votes, which only once have ever been cast for a Democratic candidate for the presidency. That was in 1912, when Woodrow Wilson vealized upon the Republican suicide of that year.

In other years Illinois has been overwhelmingly Republican. Coolidge carried it by nearly 900,000 over Davis, and Harding won it by approximately the same figures in 1920. That does not fease "the happy warrior" of 1928.

His survey to that is that he has approximately a million votes ahead of his ticket in the only year he was ever beaten for the governorship of New York.

DUE IN CHICAGO TONIGHT.

Tonight he will reach Chicago. He will stay there tomorrow and Friday. On Friday night he will speak at the 131st Regiment Armory in what promises to be a memorable political meeting. Democratic candidates for the presidency usually spend three days in Illinois. Governor Smith is. He is doing so because he believes they will be profitably spent.

En route to Chicago today, the New York governor will make a number of stops in Illinois, notably at Springfield and Bloomington. They are all cities.

Governor Smith closed his campaign west of the Mississippi here last night with a slashing attack on the Republican fiscal record of the past eight years. He made prospects particularly to "Coolidge economy" and in the process he accused his Republican opponent, Herbert Hoover, of being a party to the "deliberate misrepresentation" of the Republican record.

HUENEFELD ON LAST LEG OF FLIGHT TO TOKIO

Shanghai, Oct. 17 (AP)—Baron Ehrenfried Gunther von Huenfeld today took off from here on the last leg of his flight to Tokyo. He started his flight from Berlin on September 18 in the Junkers monoplane ship of the Bremen, in which he made the first westward airplane crossing of the Atlantic.

He had hoped to complete the trip to Tokyo in eight days but passport vexations in Asia Minor and heavy rainstorms in India caused delays.

FORMER ACTING MAYOR OF DETROIT DIES IN CRASH

Detroit, Oct. 17 (AP)—Joseph A. Martin, former acting mayor and president of the City Council of Detroit, was instantly killed today when an automobile in which he was riding crashed into a telephone pole and killed Edward Jennus Sofferin, cigar manufacturer, suffered a fracture of the skull. He is held prisoner in a hospital. Officers said the car was being driven at a high rate of speed.

SIX MEXICAN REBEL LEADERS EXECUTED

Mexico City, Oct. 17 (AP)—Execution of five insurgent leaders was described today in a dispatch to El Universal from Gen. Luis Potosi. The prisoners were betrayed by a comrade, Ignacio Sanchez, after he was captured a month ago. Immediately after making the denunciation he was executed.

Mrs. Robinson "Pinch Hits" for Hubby as Rear-End Speaker

Weiser, Ida., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Although momentarily afflicted with stage fright, Mrs. Joe T. Robinson rose admirably to her first campaign speech when her absent-minded husband was caught unprepared.

She talked to a large and enthusiastic crowd from the rear platform of the Robinson private car after she had motioned frantically to the senator and then to members of his secretarial staff to welcome the gathering that appeared at a stop unexpectedly made.

When no relief appeared, Mrs. Robinson turned to the folks herself and made a brief speech that "went over" well.

Missing Quincy Tot Is Found Trapped in Drain Pipe

For an hour and a half today the parents of four-year-old Elizabeth Schultz of Harriett ave., Quincy, searched near the house for their daughter until a weak cry reached them.

Tracing it, they discovered the girl inside of a sewer pipe, into which she had crawled while playing in a nearby store yard. The child's father, Edward Schultz, extricated her. She was found none the worse for her experience.

$21,000,000 SOVIET ORDER

Moscow, Oct. 17 (INS)—Soviet Russia will spend $21,000,000 in the United States for electrical equipment within the next six years. All will be bought from the General Electric Company. Shipments will begin early next year.

ARMY DIRIGIBLE 'KICKED ABOUT BY WIND'

Scott Field, Ill., Oct. 17 (AP)—Its nose crushed and envelope ripped, the RS-1, United States Army semi-rigid dirigible, limped to its hangar here after a battle with line squalls on the Mississippi river in the vicinity of Memphis, Tenn.

Returning from a 1000-mile flight to San Antonio, Tex., where it made exhibition flights in connection with the American Legion convention, the RS-1 ran full into a nest of line squalls, which it fought for more than three hours.

Capt. W. E. Kepner, winner of this year's Gordon Bennett Balloon Cup race, was in charge of the ship with four commissioned officers and nine enlisted men.

"It was the most violent weather I have ever seen from the air," Capt. Kepner said. "It seems almost miraculous that our ship should have come through. At times the gas bag appeared to be crushed absolutely flat; at other times it was puffed out.

"We were kicked around by the winds as if the ship had been a football.

"The first heavy squall that hit us ripped the envelope near 4 noon and crushed the nose beams. Lieut. Fogelsonder was up in the nose at the time. It looked very serious for him. He managed to drop down.

Peace Reigns in Erin as One-Man War Ends

Cork, Irish Free State, Oct. 17 (AP)—A one-man war in Ireland has come to an end. A truce is on between the Irish Free State and Cornelius Healy, known as the "one-eyed gunner of the Seanad." Healy finally is in jail awaiting trial for his misdeeds.

For five years the one-eyed gunner has been the most sought after in the Free State. When Eamon de Valera ordered his followers to cease fighting some five years ago the one-eyed gunner had only just begun.

Since then he had marched up and down the country, with an automatic gun over his shoulder, waging war on his own account.

When the Free State decided that Healy had better be given free lodgings at the state's expense, police and soldiers were seen after him to break to him the tidings. He avoided their clutches. Several times he dashed from houses which were surrounded by police.

But at last the Free State police heard that the one-eyed gunner was at his home near Cork. They waited until night. Then they surrounded his home and carried the fortress by surprise.

VERMONT MAN KILLED BY HIT-RUN BOOTLEGGER

St. Johnsbury, Vt., Oct. 17 (AP)—The body of Burton Dimick, 24, of Hardwick, was found in a roadside ditch at Hardwick Village within a quarter of a mile of a deserted beer-laden automobile, which is believed to have caused his death. Authorities believe that after striking Dimick the driver of the rum-running truck stripped his car of number plates and escaped in the woods.

BROADCASTERS ELECT HUB MAN AS VICE-PRESIDENT

Washington, Oct. 17—The amendment of the radio law is urged in a resolution adopted unanimously by the National Association of Broadcasters at the convention here today. The resolution to be presented to Congress contends the 1927 law is too drastic.

William S. Hedges of Station WNAC, Chicago, was elected president; Joseph B. Groce of WEEI, Boston, first vice-president.

SCHOOLHOUSES BOMBED; TWO PUPILS HURT

Verdigre, Neb., Oct. 17 (AP)—A country school dynamiting similar to that which occurred near Ottawa, Ill., a year ago, has the countryside aroused today. Two small children, injured in the explosion, were in a hospital.

The dynamite, as was the case in the Illinois bombing, was planted in the schoolhouse stove. Only the fact that the children had gone outside to play just before the explosion rocked the building prevented a heavy casualty list.

The stove was blown to pieces and a large hole was torn in the roof. Miss Agnes Mostica, the teacher, had walked to the schoolhouse door to call the children back to their classes when the dynamite exploded. She escaped harm.

Officers found that a window had been forced during the week-end, which seemingly would explain how the dynamite was taken into the school.

Aurora, Ill., Oct. 17 (AP)—Bombers of the J. H. Freeman school, under construction, were being sought today under the spur of rewards totaling $3000.

The bomb, exploding early yesterday, caused an estimated damage of $20,000, wrecking that part of the building which was to be used as a gymnasium. Officials could ascribe no motive for the dynamite attack.

Convicted of Illegal Auto Parking by His Own Photos

Exhibiting a photograph to prove there was no sign forbidding parking on Hollis st., Edward A. Scanlon of North St., Medford, proved his own undoing today in municipal court. Patrolman Sawyer of Lagrange st. station took the picture and pointed out two signs barely visible over the tops of automobiles. Scanlon was fined $5 and appealed.

Bombs Wreck Four Shops in Chicago

Chicago, Oct. 17 (AP)—Explosion of four bombs in widely separated parts of town broke the calm of last night and early today in Chicago.

Three of the bombs were directed at tire and battery shops. The fourth shattered the front of the Kennard shoe store on Roosevelt rd. In the case of the Illinois Battery Service, police saw the hand of labor racketeers.

Other bombings were the Speedway Tire Service, Inc., and the Tire Service and Battery Shop.

Total damage will run into several thousand dollars.

Re-elects Hoover

Chicago, Oct. 16 (AP)—Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, was re-elected president of the American Child Health Association today during a joint convention with the American Public Health Association.

PUTS DIVORCE OUTSIDE PALE OF CHURCH

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—The divorce problem is "chiefly confined to those who are outside the pale and direct influence of the church," the House of Bishops of the Episcopal Church was told today in a report prepared by a special church commission which has been studying the subject for the past three years.

The survey, read by the Right Rev. Herman Page, bishop of Michigan and chairman of the commission, requested no change in the laws of the church which prohibits the remarriage of persons divorced except innocent parties in divorces obtained on statutory grounds.

Three recommendations looking toward solution of the problem were offered as follows:

"That our normal schools, colleges, universities and seminaries be asked to offer more instruction on the subject of human relationship, especially on the subject of marriage.

"That the clergy of this church be urged to give training for marriage a conspicuous place in their programs.

"That social service commissions be asked to give special attention to the whole problem of marriage and divorce."

Straw Vote Forecasts Results, Says Work

By CHARLES N. WHEELER
Noted Political Analyst

Chicago, Oct. 17—The Hearst Nation-wide poll is attracting attention of political leaders throughout the country. With an exception here and there, both sides freely admit that the figures up to date show the trends as they are confidentially reported by field workers to the various camps.

Singled out from all the straw votes being gathered, the political chiefs appear to be most interested in the figures from New York and Wisconsin.

In these states the Hearst poll, as of today, shows Governor Smith slightly in the lead. This, the Democratic chiefs point out, squares with their canvass.

New figures just arriving, however, may show new trends over the week-end, but for the moment it appears to be a horse race in all three states.

Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican national committee, says that the Hearst poll has not only been accurate in the main, in comparison with his information from reliable representatives in the field, but that it has guided him somewhat in checking up on enthusiastic workers in some sections where he wanted the truth.

"It squares with our reports," he said. "We have scouts whose duty is to ascertain the trend of sentiment and we have other sources of information. I would say that the poll appears to be fairly accurate.

"It has given the country a clear and advance insight into the political situation throughout the East, South, West and Middle-West, and, although no poll can foretell the swing that sometimes develops in the last part of a campaign, the result on November 6 will be substantially as indicated by the poll today.

"We have known and expected that this year, for the first time since the Civil War, the Republican party has better than an even chance of winning several states below the Mason-Dixon line.

"The Hearst poll, however, was the first agency to disclose this fact to the country.

"We of the national committee have found the poll very helpful, for it has provided us with a check on claims and reports from sources whose reliability might be challenged unless substantiated.

"The poll not only has been very interesting and enlightening, but it also has rendered a real public service."

AMERICAN ATHEISTS' HEAD UNDER CHARGES

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 17 (AP)—Charles Smith of New York, president of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, Inc., was fined $25 today for violating a censorship ordinance forbidding the use of the "name of God or of Jesus Christ, the Saviour," in "movies and acts" except in "veneration and worship." The "scenes" were two signs displayed in the window of atheist headquarters. On one sign was painted "Evolution Is True. The Bible's a Lie. God's a Ghost." And on the other "Atheist Tracts Free."

TITLE CONTEST PRIZE IS WON

Mrs. George A. Cutler of 201 Village ave., Dedham, wins the $100 prize offered by the Messrs. Shubert for the best title suggested for "The Queen's Taste," the new musical comedy now playing at the Shubert.

There were over 5000 titles received by the contest managers. It was found necessary to take into consideration the neatness of copy as well as the thought given to constructive suggestions.

Several titles were submitted by persons employed in newspaper offices who were not eligible to enter the contest. Among them was "Loyal Lovers," which is being considered when the management definitely decided on the most suitable title for New York. The titles selected below are the committee's choice of those submitted in the contest. The committee consisted of three Boston dramatic critics.

Owing to there being so many good titles submitted, the management has decided to give five extra prizes of two seats each to a performance of "The Queen's Taste," at the Shubert, or for "The Silent House" at the Majestic, both of these successes being under the management of the Messrs. Shubert. The winners may select the play they wish. The winners are as follows:

First Prize of $100—Mrs. Geo. A. Cutler, 201 Village ave., Dedham. Title—"HEIR FOR TWO."

Second Prize of two theater tickets, Robinson Crusoe, Hartford, N. H. Title—"TOO THE PRINCE."

Third Prize of two theater tickets, Mrs. Bessie N. Davis, 24 Vernon st., Bangor, Me. Title—"CASTLE CAPERS."

Fourth Prize of two theater tickets, Donald Wall, 28 Kenilvia st., Dorchester. Title—"HAPPINESS AHEAD."

Fifth Prize of two theater tickets, Margaret M. Fitzgerald, 4 Lenox st., Medford. Title—"ROSE OF ARCADIA."

Sixth Prize of two theater tickets, Dr. David Lewis, 627 Boylston st., Boston. Title—"A LADY'S LADY."

TIGER LOVE by EUSTACE HALE BALL

An Amazing Story of a Dancer

CHAPTER 8

DAWN came with the suddenness, in that tropical land, of which poets have sung and yet with the weeping of lowering clouds it presaged only misery for Roala, the dancing girl.

Even though she, Nigili and Fairim Gad had reached the trading post of Jawal, larger than any they had visited for months, life seemed more hopeless than ever before. Once she would have deemed it the chance to dance and aid the old couple to collect more money from the street throngs, for their common comfort.

But, drenched to the skin from having fallen in a faint on the rain soaked jungle road, the girl was shivering and aching from temples to toe. It was the first symptom of a fever.

"You have sold, now," old Nigili told her husband. "We must buy shelter and warmth for this, our jewel, lest she melt in the heat of the plague. I understand lime . . . but beware the wineshops, old fool."

Her husband sullenly sought about the town until he had found quarters, cruse but sheltered from the storm. The girl was led to a couch, warm coverlets provided and native herbs were brought by a boy than deep learned in the ways of sickness. For many days it seemed that the girl lingered on the verge of the broad river which is crossed in but one direction.

"If she dies, Nigili, I will slit thine ears and kick thee from the house," threatened Fairim Gad, with a scowl of his gray brows. The old woman answered him not, but sniffed at the odor of native wines which clung to him. Rupees in abundance will buy many drinks in the cheaper taverns of a small Indian town, far from the sea coast. And Fairim Gad had sought to drown his anxieties.

He had met, among other convivial spirits in his favorite haunt a sleuder, bright-eyed young man who seemed fond of his companion, only and accordingly permitted him to purchase many cups of the fermented juice of the grape.

"And so thou hast a daughter who is ill," ventured this youth. "She is not old enough to wed! Why not let her husband pay for the visits of the healer?"

"I am not seeking a husband for her among such curs as may be found in this hole of mud," Fairim Gad had boasted. "My daughter dances like one of the Rods. When she is healed I shall take her onward, earning much more gold for my wife and myself. And then, my son . . . then, I shall marry her to a great nobleman or a rich merchant."

"But, why not take her to Calcutta, or Delhi, or Bombay?" asked the shrewd young man, simple though he appeared.

"Because I want to keep her away from all white men. I have a very good reason!" and Fairim Gad had quaffed his cup with great satisfaction at his own cleverness.

Thus it was that a week later

JUDGE MURRAY DEFENDS FEE IN COURT

Judge Michael J. Murray of the Boston Municipal Court was present in the Norfolk Probate Court today to defend his $3500 charge for services as executor of the estate of John H. Burke, his former associate.

Because of a legal technicality, Judge McCoole dismissed the petition brought on behalf of the three children of the former justice and allowed to stand Judge Murray's fee as well as a $2000 counsel fee of William Shaw McCallum.

The Burke contestants, through their counsel, told the court Judge Murray as a friend of the family had promised not to charge for his services, but that instead he entered his fee.

Judge John W. McArnarey, counsel for both the Boston Judge and lawyer, argued that the final accounting of Judge Murray was allowed on February 23, last, and since no appeal had been taken within the 20 days allotted by law to do so, a petition now to reopen the hearing was not possible.

The Burke estate is valued at $35,000.

REPORT AMERICAN SLAIN BY MEXICAN CHIEFTAIN

Washington, Oct. 17 (INS)—Charles Smith, presumed to be an American citizen, whose murder by Mexican rebels was reported to the State Department on October 10, by Consul Edward D. Lowry at Guadalajara, was killed by a Mexican chieftain named Ibarra, after Smith had wounded Ibarra, according to a report received today by the State Department.

Lowry's report said Ibarra with 25 others appeared at Smith's home demanding money and arms. Smith refused and Ibarra tried to drag him from his home. Smith fired, wounding Ibarra. Smith was killed and the "rebels" fled.

RHODE ISLAND SLAYER GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE

Providence, Oct. 17 (AP)—George E. Robbins of this city today in superior court was sentenced to prison for life for murder. He was convicted two weeks ago of slaying Mrs. Mary Hare in a jealous rage.

'WHEN DO WE GET OUR PLATES,' AUTOISTS ASK

ILL, HUNTS MISSING GIRL, 18

A heartbroken mother, who left a hospital bed against medical advice to conduct an unsuccessful personal search for her daughter, appealed to the Boston Evening American today to assist in finding Marie M. White, 18, 1 Crosby pl., Roxbury.

"It is only five days since I underwent a serious operation," Mrs. Andrew F. White, the mother, complained, "and the absence of my daughter from home has wrecked me mentally and physically."

Between sobs Mrs. White said her daughter, whom she had left at home to care for a five-year-old sister while confined to the hospital, has been absent from the Roxbury home for 11 days and inquiries among relatives and her acquaintances as to her whereabouts have proved futile.

The sorrowing mother is willing to forgive the missing daughter if she will only return to lift from her physically weakened condition the burden of caring for the younger sister and relieve her father of household duties which hamper his efforts to hold a night-time job.

WIFE GIVES NOT A HOOT FOR HOOT

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 17 (INS)—Reports were prevalent in the film colony today of the separation of Hoot Gibson, movie cowboy, and Mrs. Gibson, former vaudeville actress.

Mrs. Gibson is said to have left for New York several weeks ago seeking a musical career.

Gibson declined to make a statement, although friends of the couple are said to have declared both of them admitted they had separated.

COST OF RINGING FALSE ALARMS RAISED IN LYNN

In an effort to forestall the Hallowe'en pranks of boys and correct the perverted humor of adults, Judge Ralph W. Reeve today in Lynn district court boosted the fine for ringing false alarms from $10 to $20.

Fred Allen, 14, was the first victim of the stiffened penalty and given time to raise the $20 fine. Court to find work after school hours by which to satisfy the edict of the court.

WIFE SLIPS STAR'S LARIAT

Reports from Hollywood announce that the Hoot Gibsons are parted. Mrs. Gibson, who was Helen Johnson of St. Louis, a vaudeville actress, is said to have left the film cowboy to return to the stage.

'AND WHAT DO WE PAY?' IS THEIR SECOND QUERY

State officials are anxiously awaiting the decision of the Supreme Court on the 1929 compulsory automobile insurance rates.

Pending this decision, registration blanks have been held up by Registrar of Motor Vehicles George A. Parker.

And vitally interested in the whole proceedings are the hundreds of thousands of car owners. They want to know two things: "When do we get our plates and what will we have to pay?"

One can hear all kinds of opinions on the contentions of the insurance companies seeking the writ of mandamus to compel the acting insurance commissioner to use the high Monk rates. Vigorous opposition to these on the part of Attorney Fuller Attk Allen Warner and Lieutenant Governor Allen led Monk to resign.

Some believe the failure to promulgate new rates before the 1st of September, the last day allowed under the law, automatically fixes the 1928 rates in effect for 1929. Others express the opinion that the action left the rates in the air to the extent that can only be remedied by the calling of a special session of the Legislature.

But by far the greater is the opinion that the only limit for law is the next year's rates has been taken too seriously.

This latter group believes that Acting [illegible] ing I. Sarason Commissioner Arthur H. Howell is now responsible for the issuing of the 1929 rates, and that it is his duty to do so.

Should this latter opinion prevail, many high-ups point to the pushing into effect of the rates originally proposed by former Commissioner Monk pending the present test in the courts.

The final decision is expected to come down at the end of this week. Others are wagering it will not be ready until after November 1.

Braves Owner Busy With Sunday Sport Bill

HORNSBY NOT SOLD, AS YET

Judge Fuchs Will Trade Rajah If It Will Strengthen Club

By NICK FLATLEY

Rogers Hornsby will not be traded right away to the Chicago Cubs.

Judge Fuchs made that evident, when confronted with a mass of telegraphic evidence from Chicago and other large league centers. The Hornsby rumor had been grabbed as a news item, and it was generally conceded that Rogers had been traded, and everything fixed.

Judge Fuchs these days is busy with his campaign for Sunday baseball. He's a politician who doesn't believe in whispering.

"Just now," he declares, "I am not interested in baseball trades. I am working on the Sunday baseball proposition, and will be until after election. Then I will have time to get back to the Braves.

"I will say this. I have had no offer from Chicago, or from any other club for Hornsby. If offers come, I will consider them. I am ready to buy, sell, trade or raffle anybody on my ball club, any time I think I can get the players we need.

"If some first division club wan'ts Hornsby, or anybody else, and offers enough, I'll do business. But just now I have other things on my mind."

The Judge has had the toughest year of his baseball life. One thing and another conspired to give his bankroll and hopes. But he's still an optimist. Willing to gamble still, with the fates, because he believes that he has had his share of tough breaks, and has some good fortune coming.

It is our opinion that Hornsby will go. But you can mark this in your dope sheet. The Braves will get plenty in return. The club has deals pending with every team in the National League.

Lots of managers could use players like Hornsby, Rickey Stalee and Bobby Smith. And young pitchers like Brandt and Delaney.

The Braves will do a lot of swapping this winter, and also some spending. And they may emerge with a real ball club. If trying means anything, they should. They have it coming.

Mrs. Schoemmel in Water 72 Hours

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—Lottie May Schoemmel, woman swimming star, broke the world endurance record today when she left a hotel pool here after remaining in the water 72 hours 3 minutes and 45 seconds. The former record was set up Sunday Jimmy Cherry in a Los Angeles pool. Cherry's mark was 65 hours and 2 minutes.

WILL HE PROVE A GIANT KILLER?

STAR CRIMSON HALFBACK

There was a David in biblical days who slew a giant with his sling shot. Coach Horween of Harvard is hoping that David Guarnaccia, halfback on the Harvard team, will prove himself a 1928 edition of the same David on Saturday when Harvard faces the Army eleven at the Stadium. Guarnaccia has starred for two years against the best of football gridders and will no doubt continue to do so against the strong Cadet team.

Punts, Passes and Fumbles

By BILL GRIMES

Coach Arnold Horween and his assistants will put the Harvard squad through the paces today and tomorrow in preparation for West Point. It has been years since Harvard has put so much stress on an early season contest.

Harvard has never been defeated by the Cadets and Coach Horween is most anxious to keep the slate as is. Although the West Point game will furnish a test for the Crimson, it may be a costly one, for the Army plays football and few teams have been able to array back into their winning stride for some time after a West Point encounter.

Although Chick Shea, the former Concordia Latin star, played most of his football as a halfback, he should prove a fine asset to Dartmouth as a field general. Chick has had years of competition in all branches of sport. He knows football, and if his trick knee, which he acquired in his freshmen year, does not give him any bother, he will give both Bob Harris and Bart McDonough a battle for the quarterback job.

The fine writing down the scribes were subjected to at Yale last Saturday has started another cry for covered press stands in the East. At Yale, Harvard and Princeton, the Penn Eetaters take a beating on bad days. They are forced to work right out in the unprotected open, where as for a comparatively small expenditure a glassed-in stand could be erected.

In the Middle West every large university has not only covered press quarters but steam heated ones as well. Never mind the steam heat. Just give the press an even break with the radio broadcasters.

Charlie Murphy has shown himself to be one of the best-looking subs in the East, Yale season.

Murphy is a smart football player. He has the faculty of quickly sizing up a play and is seldom guilty of poor judgment. He is a cool performer under the most trying conditions and his playing is a fine boast for the coaching ability of Bill Ormsby.

Point brand of football than some of his teammates, for he is a playground product where "I'm sorry" has never been heard.

Mayes McLain, the giant Chero-

Harry Hennegs, the graduate manager, Jack Cannell and Cy Ashenbach, former captain, were interested spectators at the Yale-(cerch) game. Yale talked Dartmouth into agreeing to a non-scouting treaty last season. The Green got the worst of this agreement, for all of their plays were diagramed in the papers after the Harvard game. Yale will be well scouted this season and it may be a different story with Dartmouth in possession of Yale's offensive play.

Coach Jimmy De Harte, of Duke University, expressed the belief that the Durham institution will be admitted to the Southern Conference at the annual meeting in December. Duke plays under Southern Conference rules and will make application for membership. If this request is denied, Duke will tie up with some Northern conference.

Tommy Gilligan, the Newton boy, will receive his baptism in big time football against West Point. Tommy has featured in both Harvard games and he will be every bit as effective against the Army. Gilligan is one of those natural football players who crop up once in a decade. Tommy will feel far more at home playing the West

PAYNE SCORES VICTORY OVER SCHAAF

By JACK CONWAY

It is likely that Ernie Schaaf and Tiger Payne will be rematched for a bout to be staged at the Arena in three weeks' time, Col. Bob McKirdy has already opened negotiations for this bout.

Payne, the best colored boxer to come to the front since the late Tiger Flowers was at his best, furnished a surprise when he outscored the rugged Schaaf in a 10-round tussle at the Arena. The decision was a close one, but in the opinion of the majority of the fans the verdict was just.

Jack Conway

It was a hard fight with Schaaf making a desperate effort to pull the decision out of the fire during the last two rounds.

Schaaf had a 10-pound weight advantage. Ernie scaled 196 pounds against 186 for his dusky rival.

SCHAAF IN ERROR

Schaaf made the mistake of trying to outbox Payne at long range. This gave the Tiger an advantage as he was not obliged to rough things with his heavier opponent. Payne is also faster than the former cob and got the best of most of the exchanges at long range.

At close quarters it was a different story. Schaaf packed the heavier wallop and usually forced the Tiger to give ground.

During the last two sessions, Schaaf changed his style of battling. He paraded to close quarters and let punches fly with both hands. In the ninth round he had Payne in distress, while he held the New Yorker even in the final session. If Schaaf had adopted similar tactics earlier in the bout, he would probably have won.

Schaaf carried four rounds, the first, second, fifth and ninth, the tenth was even, while in the other five frames Payne was out front.

Larry Brignolia of Cambridge turned in another good fight when he outpointed Charley Donovan of South Boston in the semifinal of 10 rounds. Brignolia scored with the cleaner and harder blows and had a comfortable margin in his favor when hostilities ended

HAMBONE WINS

Hambone Kelley of South Boston gave the crowd a thrill when he licked Big Boy Burlap of Westerly, R. I., in a six-round tussle. Hambone punched in old-time style. In the second frame, he was dropped to the canvas, but got up to come on and win

Big Boy Rawson stopped Joe Morano in a round, while Ted Johnson did as much for Jack Hardy. Mike Ryan took only three seconds to dispose of Andy Burica of Waterbury.

Langmaid Wins

The second round of the fall tournament at Tedesco Country Club, Dedham, was won by H. P. Langmaid, who defeated D. A. Munday, 4 up, 3 to play. H. Shannahan was the other winner in the same class, defeating J. S. Sanborn, 1 up.

Mirley Battles Marr for Varsity Berth

By JOHN B. GILLOOLY

Boston College's football squad is taking things easy at the Heights this week trying to pick up a lot of weight that was lost in the sultry games with the Navy and Duke. But when the boys get going in earnest again next Monday, there's sure to be an interesting little warfare between Jack Marr and Joe Mirley for a varsity halfback berth.

In the opinion of many who have seen all three games played by the Eagles, Joe Mirley of Everett is going to displace Jack Marr, who has been a regular since the opening day of practice.

Coach McKenney hasn't anything to say concerning this fight between two first-class backs. And the other coaches Bill Ormsby and John McManmon, who might know a little about the possible shift, won't utter a word.

Marr was injured early in the Navy game and Mirley took his place. Mirley didn't show any signs of inferiority as substitutes go, but played a whale of a game. Slightly better even than Marr.

Every dog has his day and the same goes for the bench-warmers on any football team. But Mirley didn't just have a day. He played most of the Duke game and was even left in the fray when McKenney threw in his first string backfield of Weston, Creedon and Smith.

Against Duke, Mirley showed all promise of breaking into the regular job. He made some fine tackles behind the line, intercepted a forward pass and recovered a fumble. It was hard to match his interfering ability with Marr for Joe is a ball carrier and not a clearing out back.

Mirley made only a few yards when he took the oval, but he looked good in doing so. Duke had a stubborn line that even Weston and Creedon found hard to penetrate.

MARR A SOPHOMORE

Marr is only a sophomore and his rise to the varsity on the first try was expected. He's much bigger than Mirley and has an educate l boot that was expected to do the punting for Boston college this trip.

Mirley's rise has been something phenomenal. Mirley is older than Marr and has had varsity experience. He was on Cav's squad three years ago and the major saw varsity material in him. He quit school for a year and then came back to play under Leo Daley. Joe is now a junior.

Mirley is very fast but would do a lot better if he could develop a hip shift or a weave or even a good straight-arm. He usually outdistances the opposing tackles but goes down easy when hit. Creedon and Weston have to be jumped on by three or four of the enemy before they'll even think of sinking to old mother earth.

If Marr was doing the punting for Boston College, as was expected, he would be a first-class man in the backfield. Nobody on the squad would be able to nudge him out of there. But Joe McKenney has found Dixon a surer booter than Marr and Long John is doing all the kicking.

Mirley seems sure of making good but Marr seemingly refuses to give in. The solution may be that they'll both play a half of the Boston University game a week from Saturday and the one showing the coach the most stuff will be elected to the varsity job.

ALL AFTER LETTER

This is the only chance that Jo likey to come on the first team. But the subs are battling in the scrimmages trying to do something or other that will boost their stock. There's a trio to Buffalo coming in a month or so and then a few minutes in the Holy Cross game is all that is required for a letter.

A young man who will bear watching among the scrubs is Mr. David Dillon He's made a jump this week from the third to the second team.

Dillon has been on the squad for three years. He played in three games under Cav In his junior year and has seen action against Catholic University and Duke this fall. Dave wants that letter B to put on his Maroon sweater before he graduates.

ARLINGTON IS HARD HIT BY INJURIES

By DICK McSWEENEY.

Arlington High school's football team is having a lot of hard luck these days. Three of the regular backfield men are out with injuries Blackman has a bad knee, and Rose and Downey are incapacitated by mishaps that occurred in practice scrimmages.

Coach Downs will try to fill the gaps left by the loss of his regulars with Gaiucci, De Donato and Lane all three of whom are only sopho mores, with very little experience.

Lane has plenty of football tradition back of him. His brother, the famous Myles Lane of Dartmouth, was one of the best backs ever to wear the green of the Hanover college.

Gaiucci and De Donato have shown up well in practice but they lack the experience necessary to football success.

With all the bad news from Arlington there comes one ray of hope. Coach Downs has uncovered a new punter, Larry Howatt, a boy who can lift the bloated oval for 40 yards consistently. Howatt went out for end this year and it was not until Downey, the regular kicker was hurt that Coach Downs discovered young Howatt's potentialities as a back.

The kicking of Howatt in the Winchester game was a revelation to Coach Downs and the Arlington fans, so much so that Downs lost no time in developing Howatt as a halfback.

As a part of the dedication exercises of the new Schoolboy's Stadium building situated on Audobon rd., a football game will be played Thursday afternoon with Mechanic Arts and Charlestown as the principals.

Hago Harrington is playing a fine game at fullback for Dorchester this year. In the Mechanic Arts game Harrington was all over the field intercepting forward passes, making long runs, and bruising ball-carriers to earth with hard tackles. It was Harrington's touchdown in the first period that gave Dorchester its victory, as his was the only score of the game.

Britton Toys With Laddie Lee

Portland, Me., Oct. 17—With a hard right punch behind the left ear, Laddy Lee of this city knocked down Jack Britton, the ex-welterweight champion, in the first round of their scheduled 12-round bout at the Arena A. A. tonight.

Britton stayed on his knees for the count of four, and from that time on gave Lee an uncanny boxing lesson before his largest crowd that has jammed into the exposition building this year. Britton had 10 rounds. Lee one and one was even, according to the sport writers.

Joe Glover of New York stopped Eddie Mallon in the first round with a terrific right hand smash that broke the Portland boy's jaw.

Young Bartlett was appointed Mike Marler of Westbrook in four rounds. They are flyweights Johnny Summers of Lewiston came from behind to nose out Rip Vandyke, Portland lightweight, in four rounds, and Frankie Wilson of Lewiston Malilex, local lightweights slugged fcer to a draw.

Yale May Play in Georgia Next Year

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 17 (AP)—Yale and the University of Georgia will probably meet on the gridiron at Athens, Ga., in 1929, it was indicated today by Dr. Steve Hogwood, who, with Chancellor C. N. Snelling and Dr. S. V. Sanford of the Southern institution, met with New Haven authorities over the week-end at New Haven.

Dr. Barrow added that the committee found the Yale representatives in a receptive mood. Georgia will be ready at that time. The stadium will seat 30,000

The subject probably will be definitely decided within a few days, Dr. Barrow said.

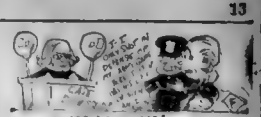
Jack Dempsey Still the Great Artist: How He Can Draw!



EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

Gilligan May Start at Quarter for Harvard

Jack Dempsey Turns Scribe — Sets Own Story — Corrects Proof

Jack has discovered more times than one that the pen is mightier than the glove but not so profitable. Dempsey took over the job of sporting editor just for a day and did a mighty good job.

A privileged character like Jack Dempsey can set type in any newspaper office although the rules call for a printer's card. But Chairman Chappell, being a fight fan himself, passed his O. K. on the proceedings and we find Jack setting up his own story.

Like all good editors, Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight, is pictured above correcting his own story. Jack is mighty careful in such matters and especially so when he knows that thousands of readers of the Boston Evening American will be scanning with interest eye rything he has to say on the boxing question. Matty Keaney, head office boy, is shown waiting for the proof.

HORWEEN MAY START GILLIGAN AT QUARTER

By TED LYNCH

After three weeks of steady plugging, Tommy Gilligan's quest for a varsity job on the Harvard first eleven seems to be rewarded.

Although Coach Arnold Horween still holds the right of proviso in placing Elliott Putnan at quarter against the Army, the Harvard football camp is rife today with the news of the elevation of Gilligan to the signal-caller's post against the Army here on Saturday.

This news certainly was well received by Gilligan today but his joy never came near the heights of jubilation among the Harvard football fraternity. The Newton boy has earned his spurs to say the least. In the first two games he has been the individual star. For two games Stadium fans have wondered why he was not started on the first eleven.

Realizing the toughness of the Army foe here on Saturday, Coach Horween has balanced the scales and the lever has pointed in Gilligan's direction. Horween never had full confidence in the erratic Putnam.

The former Milton Academy boy looked great in the early games on the schedule and was ready to completely blow up when the Crimson met the boys who give and take. A repetition of such play would certainly wreck any chance Harvard might have against the soldiers.

In Gilligan he has the type of back needed to run a young eleven against an experienced aggregation of football players. Gilligan cares little for the Army or its reputation. It is just another football game for him and he will be in there trying as hard as ever.

He feels that Harvard can lick any team in the country and has that peculiar knack of selling his idea to his players even in the most trying circumstances.

On the field he is the boss of the eleven. Not even a captain can alter his convictions. He believes he is right and feels that Horween would not have picked him for the post had his signal-calling appeared the least bit faulty.

He is a running back and will keep the ball when he sees fit, regardless of what he calls a foolish adage, that Harvard quarterbacks should never carry the ball.

Many have been rather skeptical about Gilligan's showing against the Army. They feel that the Newton boy will not break away against such a strong flank as the Army.

They feel that Gilligan was good against Springfield and North Carolina but believe he will falter against Captain Sprague and his strong cadets.

But there are also many who feel that Gilligan will continue his brilliant work. The reasons for their claim center on the fact that Gilligan was playing with a weak and inexperienced backfield in both these games. His interference was none too good.

These many also claim that teamed with Guarnaccia, Harper and French, the former Newton high star will be a leading light in that great spectacle across the Charles next Saturday.

However, to his great carrying ability we must add Gilligan's knack at drop-kicking. He is the best kicker on the Harvard squad and all week has been placing them across the bar from any angle within the forty-yard stripe. Horween expects him to boot several over that bar on Saturday if the occasion presents itself.

But, as has been said before, Horween still maintains that Elliott Putnam has an outside chance to start the game at quarter. Gilligan has him stopped in every department but Horween is wavering between Gilligan's ability as a signal-caller and his fitness as "psychology back."

Scalpers Ask $20 for Pair of Tickets

Ticket speculation should reach its high water mark at Harvard this week. With thousands demanding the pasteboards, the speculators are running the students ragged with these seemingly impossible prices.

This morning one student tried to buy four pasteboards. He was told that the price was nothing short of $100. The face value of these tickets is just $16.

Attempts to buy two tickets called for prices ranging from $15 to $20, according to the location in the Stadium. Never before in the history of Harvard have tickets been so scarce. The speculators know this and hence their high quotation on tickets. The prices are going up every day and by Saturday it will be hard to estimate the value of exchange.

The speculators are trying hard to buy tickets from students. Thus far their efforts have been fruitless. The students are laboring under the fear of being blacklisted by the Harvard A. A. The specs hope that some of the shy Crimson will waver later on in the week when the prices go up.

TECH SOPHOMORE ELEVEN TO PLAY HARVARD JUNIORS

The sophomore class football team of Massachusetts Institute of Technology will play their second game of the season when they take on the Harvard Juniors at Harvard tomorrow.

In their first game the Technology team was defeated after a closely contested meet in which Keene Normal emerged victorious.

Heeney Coming Back to U. S. Oct. 24

Wellington, New Zealand, Oct. 17 (AP)—Tom Heeney, Gene Tunney's last opponent before his retirement from the ring, will sail for America on October 24 to resume his quest for the heavyweight title.

Heeney, who has been resting in his native country since his defeat, will begin training immediately on his arrival in the United States in order to participate in Tex Rickard's elimination contests.

ARMY SUBS PUT ACROSS TALLY ON VARSITY

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 16—Birr Jones, Army's head coach, puts the cadets through a rough session this afternoon. Harvard formations, used by the scrubs, were again very much in evidence. The scrubs scored with one of the strange plays, a diagonal pass from Bell, a substitute quarter, to Stewart, his mate.

Stewart simply stepped over the goal line for the touchdown unmolested. Army's secondary defense today even with the varsity backfield in action had plenty of trouble with the scrub airline plays.

Jones shook up his ball carriers, using Bowman to relieve Nave as pilot and trying Timberlake, O'Keefe, Hutchinson and Piper to take the ball and break up forward passes, besides Nave at quarter, the varsity backfield was composed of Murrell at full and Chris Cagle and Allan as halfbacks.

In a further desire to bolster up the forward wall, Swanson and Wimer were used at different periods at center, Miller, Maxwell, Muse and Parsons at tackles, and Walsh and Harris as guards.

Lloyd George Sees First Horse Race

Newmarket, Eng., Oct. 17 (AP)—Sir Mathew Wilson's Arctic Star today won the Cesarewitch, famous autumn handicap of 2½ miles.

S. Sanford's Balanoona was second and Accalmie, owned by Mathieu Goudchaux, third. Arctic Star led by three lengths with one and one-half lengths between the second and third. The betting was 9 to 1, 25 to 1 and 25 to 1 against. The stakes were 1000 pounds with extras added.

Arctic Star is by Achtol, out of Skipress. Eagle's Pride, winner of the race last year, was withdrawn two days before the race when he broke down training. Col. H. A. Wachen's Brown Jack with Steve Donoghue up, which was the favorite, also ran.

In the Cesarewitch, David Lloyd George, wartime Premier of Britain, saw his first horse race. He appeared in buoyant spirits despite the light rain and gloomy day.

He was the guest of Lord St. David, and with his host walked around the paddock, displaying keen interest in the trot activities.

He refrained from putting anything on any of the events, although the bookies offered "especially good odds to you, sir,"

Dempsey Fills in for Nick Flatley

Former Champ Likes Job of Being Editor of Sport Pages

By JACK DEMPSEY

Nick Flatley told me he wanted to shoot a round of golf and so asked me to pinch hit for him as sporting editor of the Boston Evening American.

I got so much fun out of the job that I'm wondering why sporting editors ask money for their services. But then I also got fun out of fighting, and I pulled down as much as $800,000 for a single night's work.

When I found myself in front of a typewriter in the sporting department, I didn't know just how to start my story. So I decided to get warmed up. I kept writing:

"I do not write as well as Arthur Brisbane."

Then I got into my story, I confess I like to write. I can even use a typewriter. I have to pull my punches a bit when I drive for the keys, but I'm not as cruel on the machine as some sport writers I might mention.

In my syndicate writings I have gained much experience. I also like to put my own thoughts on paper so that I will not be blamed for the mistakes of the "ghost writers."

I always like to hit Boston on my trips. I have many friends here and always enjoy my stay here.

STILL LOVES TO FIGHT

I am glad the critics and theatergoers like my show. I do not claim to be a finished actor, but they say I am improving. I feel more natural when I step into fighting togs and begin to let the punches fly.

I have been having some regular battles with Ralph Smith. I have knocked him out several times. I find that my boxing mates don't mind being knocked stiff. They are willing to take chances to get a punch over themselves.

One night in New York Smith dropped me to the canvas with a terrific right hand belt to the nose. My nose puffed up and I wasn't anything handsome to look at for several days.

I believe the public likes to see a real scrap even though it is only in a show and I'm trying to keep it satisfied.

Besides Smith, I'm carrying along Italian Jim Herman and Harley Madden. Those babies are real fighters.

While in Boston I have had some interesting chats with Jack Sharkey, Jim Maloney, Ernie Schaaf, Honeyboy Finnegan, and other local boxers. Boston certainly has its share of high class fighting men.

I consider Sharkey the best heavyweight in the world. He should be the next champion. He has too much natural class for Paolino, Stribling, Hansen and the other contenders.

I am pleased to hear of Jim Maloney's recent ring successes. He is a fine boy and a great prospect. Jim packs a punch and has youth. These assets will carry him a long way up the fistic trail.

Ernie Schaaf is only 20, and his future is still ahead of him. He will make a name for himself in the boxing game.

WILL NOT COME BACK

Since coming to Boston every body seems to want to know if I will try a comeback next year. Once more I answer NO. Let others take up the burden. I am financially independent and will never engage in another comeback.

I like this job of being Sporting Editor as I can voice my opinions to large audiences. Then Matty Keaney, office boy, keeps me on the hop writing copy and reading proof.

I was pleased when the boys in the composing room told me they would teach me how to set up my own copy.

Since coming to Boston, I have also met Mayor Nichols and Boxing Commissioners Buckley and Lane. Everybody has treated me in wonderful style, which makes me feel good that I was once heavyweight champion of the world.

BOSS OF BRUINS SIGNS STAR

Manager Art Ross of the Bruins signed the last of the new forwards who will play with the National league team this year when Erik Pettinger, star amateur center and left wing from Fort William, Ont., signed up.

Pettinger is the same amateur star that Rangers, Toronto and other clubs tried in vain to sign a year ago.

The Bruins received from Toronto the right to negotiate with Pettinger when Jimmy Herberts was sold last winter. Conny Smythe despaired of ever getting the 200-pound amateur in line, and accordingly made the deal, the Bruins allowing the Toronto club $2000 for the right to negotiate with Pettinger.

Donie Bush After Detroit Berth

Detroit, Oct. 17 (INS)—Donie Bush, one-time Detroit shortstop and now manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is negotiating with Frank Navin of the Tigers for the job of running the local American league club next season, according to a report here today.

Bush was here a few days ago for a conference with Navin. He told friends there was considerable difference between the salary he asked and the figures offered by Navin. He believed, however, that there could be a compromise.

Donie also declared, according to friends, that he would not return to Pittsburgh.

Waite Hoyt to Go on Stage

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—Waite Hoyt, the Flatbush undertaker, is going into vaudeville. The Yankees' pitching hero of the late World series will tour a well-known vaudeville circuit, starting October 29. Hoyt, whose father, Ad Hoyt, was a minstrel man, will appear in a singing act. He not only can throw them where batters can't hit them safely, but sings a mean baritone as well.

'BEAT BOWDOIN' IS WAR CRY AT TUFTS

"Beat Bowdoin" is the war cry out at Tufts this week where the Jumbos are preparing for their annual game with their traditional rival. The student body is turning out to view the practice sessions in large numbers and the whole college will attend a monster football rally to be held in the Goddard gymnasium tomorrow night.

Coach Sampson's squad appears to be in fine condition to increase their string of consecutive victories to an even dozen. Fred Kennedy, star halfback, who was suffering from a sprained ankle took part in yesterday's workout as did Charlie Kingston, line plunger extraordinary, who has been troubled with a bruised hip. Danny Chase also worked out and is expected to make the trip Saturday.

Today's session will consist of a light scrimmage for the varsity in order to try out some of the new plays against opposition. A period of signal practice and of dummy scrimmage for assignment work will take up the balance of the workout.

Yesterday the second team scrimmaged the scrubs while the varsity ran through signals. The work of Littleton and Wilkinson was excellent. George Leckin turned in several long gains for the second team outfit.

It appears that the struggle for the center berth that was decided in favor of Tobey last season is to be decided in favor of Prehaut this season. In the latest game as in the Colby game, the latter started. The need of weight in the frontier appears to be the deciding factor in the choice of Prehaut.

He has turned in two good games in spite of a couple of poor passes against Colby.

Apparently Coach Sampson is looking forward to another season in changing Wilkinson over from a guard to a center, although there is no need of substitute center material this year with Tobey and Prehaut available, there will be next.

"Husky" Phillips who has been doing the greater part of the Tufts punting this year is also being groomed as a drop kicker to take the place of the Winchester giant, "Tiger" Ellis has not as yet succeeded in scoring one point for the Jumbos this year by his kicks.

Coach "Bob" Abbott's scrub outfit is preparing for its first game against St. Anselms at Manchester on Friday. The "Yankee" team is expected to make a good record this year as several stars of last year's freshman eleven are available. The team has shown power against the varsity.

MR. BOSTON

By Jack Conway

"AL BROWN of New York, who has been recognized as the world's bantamweight champion by the National Boxing Association, is the first negro to hold this title since the days of George Dixon," asserted Mr. Boston today.

"The bantamweight title has been kicked around since Bud Taylor outgrew the class. While most of the other little fellows were talking about what great fighters they were, Brown kept busy at the boxing racket. He licked everybody who was sent against him. It was natural that he should then get the duke from the National Boxing Association.

"I once got a peek at Brown in action in New York. He is a six footer and yet can make 118 pounds without any trouble.

"DAVE LUMIANSKY of New Bedford manages Brown. As soon as Al was proclaimed title holder, Dave decided on some irregular boxing methods. He declared his protege would meet all-comers in title matches. He went further and signed Brown to battle Johnny Cuthbert, British champion, in Paris on November 13 and Young Humery, French title holder, in Paris on December 9.

"Lumiansky also notified Tom McArdle, matchmaker at the Garden in New York, to pick the best available opponent for Brown.

"FOR eight years Lumiansky has been chasing the world's bantamweight championship. There was a time when it looked as though he would grab the title with Chick Suggs, but the latter flivvered when he entered the ring at 118 pounds with Buaney Graham. The low weight was too much for him.

"Brown then popped into Lumiansky's fistic pot and he once more started on a title hunt. This time he was successful.

"TIGER FLOWERS, former middleweight champion, proved that a colored champion, when at his best, does not have to ask odds from anybody. Brown looks as though he also possesses the real goods.

"I NOTICED Jack Sharkey driving Jack Dempsey around Grenter Boston on a sightseeing tour. These bitter ring rivals of a year ago are today fast friends. Sharkey insists Dempsey is the greatest heavyweight that ever lived, while the old Tiger asserts that Sharkey will be the next champion."

DILBOY TO HOLD BIGGEST SHOW

Judging from the large number of entries that have been received to date, Dilboy Posts amateur boxing tournament tomorrow night at Knights of Columbus hall, Somerville, will be one of the biggest and finest shows this organization has ever staged.

Leading amateurs from many sections of the state will compete with those from around this section. In addition to these more experienced boxers will be a flock of novices, who will battle for top honors in the 112-pound class.

The 160 pound class is being featured at this show, for which many entries have been received, including those from John Callahan, Roxbury; Terry Mitchell, Jamaica Plain; Paul Lemoine, South Boston, and other lesser knowns.

Competition will be held in the 112, 126, 147 and 160 open classes and 118-pound class for novices.

HANSEN READY FOR McGUIRE

Charlie Hansen, the Tarzan of the mat, is ready for his finish match with Ned Maguire, which will feature Paul Bowser's weekly wrestling tournament at the Grand Opera House tomorrow night.

Hansen, making his first start of the year, will rule a slight favorite to defeat his bulkier opponent. The Swedish star is one of the fastest and cleverest of all the heavyweight wrestlers.

Last year, he wrestled more than 80 matches, and lost only to Farmer George McLeod and the great and only Gus Sonnenberg, and he starts on a campaign tomorrow night which he hopes will lead to return matches with both McLeod and Dynamite Gus.

The bout will head an all-star card that will provide a standard at which Bowser can shoot for the rest of the year. The semifinal bout, one fall to a finish, will bring together Stanley Stasiak, the powerful Pole, and Freddy Meyers, a great young Jewish heavyweight from Chicago.

Prolific Characteristics of the Oyster

IF only one oyster were left alone until it had great-great-grandchildren, there would be so many oysters that their shells would make a pile eight times the size of the earth.

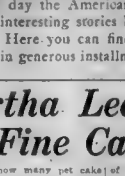
Martha Lee Gives Recipes for Fine Cakes and Cookies

NO matter how many pet cake recipes we have, there always seems to be just one more. These I have for you today I just know you will make, not once, but many, many times.

First, an inexpensive 1 der maple syrup cake

Maple Syrup Cake— One half c. shortening ½ c. granulated sugar, 2 eggs beaten light, 1 c. maple syrup, ¾ c. water, 2½ c. cake flour, ¾ tsp. soda, 2 tsp. baking powder, ½ tsp. ginger.

Cream the shortening, gradually add the sugar. Add the eggs beaten without separating the whites and yolks. Add the maple syrup, then the water alternately with the flour, which has been sifted, measured and sifted again with the ginger, soda and baking powder added. Bake in a nine loaf pan about 50 minutes. Cover with maple icing and decorate with halves of English walnuts.



Martha Lee

Next a devil's food cake, that has a first prize to its credit.

Devil's Food Cake—One half c. butter or substitute, 2 c. light brown sugar, 2 eggs, 2½ c. cake flour, ½ tsp. salt, 1 tsp. vanilla, ½ c. sour milk, ½ c. boiling water, 1 tsp. soda, 1½ squares chocolate, melted, ter ½ c. cocoa, 1 tsp. baking powder.

Cream shortening, add 1 c. sugar gradually, creaming mixture thoroughly. Beat eggs until light, add the other cupful of sugar to the eggs, mixing well. Add this egg mixture to the creamed shortening and sugar, and beat hard. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, add salt and sift three times.

Then add to the first mixture, alternating with the sour milk, beating batter hard after each addition of flour and milk. Into the boiling water stir the soda and melted chocolate, or cocoa, and beat into the cake mixture. Add vanilla. Bake in three layers in a moderate oven (375 deg. to 350 deg. F.), and when cool put together with a white icing between the layers and on top and sides of cake.

Another chocolate cake that's moist and rich is potato cake.

Potato Cake—1 cupful butter or substitute, 2 cupfuls sugar, 4 eggs, 1 cupful grated raw potato, 1 bar sweet chocolate, grated, 1 pkg. of 1 cake, ½ tsp. each allspice, cloves and cinnamon, ½ cupful milk, 2¼ cupfuls cake flour, 2¼ tsps. baking powder, ½ pound of chopped nuts

Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, then the beaten egg yolks and potato. Sift flour, measure, add dry ingredients and lemon rind. Use part of flour to dust chopped nuts. Add milk and dry ingredients alternately, then the melted chocolate. Fold in egg whites last. Bake in a round pan, slow oven (325 degrees F.) for one hour.

Cover with marshmallow icing. As icing begins to set, crease with a teaspoon, cover creases with melted bitter chocolate. Sprinkle chopped nuts around the upper edge of the cake.

Butterscotch Cookies—½ cupful butter or substitute, 2 cupfuls brown sugar, 2 eggs, ½ tbsp. vanilla, ½ tbsp. cream of tartar, ½ tbsp. soda, 3½ cupfuls cake flour.

Mix in order given. Pack in hard loaf and let stand over night in morning slice and bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.)

Pineapple Upside Down Cake—1¼ c. sifted cake flour, ½ tsp. salt, 2 tsp. baking powder, ¼ c. butter or other shortening, ½ c. sugar, 1 egg beaten light, ½ c. milk, 1 tsp. vanilla, 1 tbsp. butter, 1 c. brown sugar, 4 slices pineapple, cut fine (1½ cu), 1 c. pecan meats, slightly broken.

Sift flour once, measure, add salt and baking powder and sift three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg, then flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla.

Melt 1 tbsp. butter in 8 inch iron skillet, or in cake pan, 8x8x2 inches. Add brown sugar. Stir until melted. On this place pineapple, and sprinkle nuts over top. Pour batter over contents of pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 40 minutes.

Loosen cake from sides and bottom of pan with spatula. Serve upside down on dish, with pineapple on top. Garnish with whipped cream if desired.

Banana Nut Cake—Two cups sifted cake flour, 2 tsps. baking powder, ½ cup butter or other shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 egg yolks, beaten light, ¾ cup milk, 1 tsp. vanilla, 2 egg whites stiffly beaten

Sift flour once, measure add baking powder and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks then flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat five each addition until smooth. Add vanilla, fold in egg whites

Bake in two greased 9 inch layer pans in modern oven 375 degrees F. 25 to 30 minutes. Double recipe for three 10-inch layers. When cool, cover bottom layer with sliced bananas. Pour over this Lemon Sugar Boiled Frosting. Place second layer on top. Pour on remainder of frosting in which has been added ½ cup chopped walnut meats.

Brown Sugar Boiled Frosting—One cup brown sugar, ½ tsp cream of tartar, ½ cup boiling water, 1 egg white, stiffly beaten

Dissolve sugar and cream of tartar in boiling water. Place over fire and boil until a small amount of syrup forms a soft ball in cold water. Pour syrup over egg white, beating constantly. Continue beating until stiff enough to spread on cake.

Coconut Layer Cake—Two c. sifted cake flour, 3 tsp baking powder, ½ tsp. salt, ⅓ c butter or other shortening, 1 c sugar, 3 egg yolks, beaten light, 1 c. milk, 1 tsp. vanilla, 3 egg whites, stiffly beaten, 1 can cocoanut, Southern style

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, creaming well after each addition. Add egg yokes, then flour and milk alternately, a small amount at a time. Mix thoroughly after each addition. Add vanilla and fold in egg whites.

Bake in two greased nine-inch layer pans for 25 to 30 minutes in moderate oven (375 deg. F.). Double recipe for three 10-inch layers.

Spread seven minute frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake. Sprinkle each layer and outside of cake with cocoanut while frosting is still soft.

Seven Minute Frosting—Two egg whites, 1½ c. sugar, 5 tbsp. cold water, ¼ tsp. cream of tartar, 1 tsp. vanilla.

Put egg whites, sugar, water and cream of tartar in upper part of double boiler. Beat with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with rotary beater, and cook for 7 minutes, or until frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from fire, add vanilla, and beat until thick enough to spread.

Few cooking prunes and other dried fruits, rain water is most effective, resulting in fuller flavor and more tender skins. For green vegetables, rain water does away with the necessity for soda in the water, the natural softness keeping them a fresh green color. Rain water is a real economy for laundry purposes. Not only is much less soap required, but the natural softness dissolves the dirt and quickly removes it from the clothes. Paint can be cleaned in half the usual time, and with the use of much less soap or other cleaning medium, where it is employed.

Hints on Flat Feet

By DR. BRICE BELDEN

THE term "flat foot" is a very unfortunate one. It focuses attention on one of the minor aspects of a condition in which the actual shape of the foot may be of but scant importance.

The high arch and narrow waist of the so-called civilized foot is merely a reflection of the wasting due to loss of function of the great muscles under the sole. In non-booted peoples they are fully developed, and so the shape of the foot is what we call flat, yet undoubtedly it is a perfectly natural and healthy condition in them.

The determining factors by which we decide whether or not a flat foot exists is not the shape of the foot, but the line along which the body weight is transmitted through the shinbones to the feet. If it passes straight down when the thigh is in a "middle" position it will rest on the foot squarely and be transmitted to the ground through the natural points of contact, the flat of the heel, the outer border of the foot and the toes.

The symptoms of some disorder of the foot, in its weight-bearing function, are deformity with or without pain, aching and tenderness. There is no pain when the body is at rest.

The sole aim of treatment is to have the body-weight transmitted down the shinbone square into the foot. This can be done by fixing the foot in a slightly turned in position, whether by strapping or specially made shoes, and developing by exercise the muscles of the leg and thigh. Supports to put inside to shoe are a mistake, especially in children. If there is real fixed deformity the surgeon must correct it.

It is only partially true that the arches of the foot are supported by ligaments. Ligaments are inelastic things which cannot withstand continuous strain, under which they soon stretch. The maintenance of the arches depends upon the muscles of the leg and foot. These are constantly at work so long as the individual is standing up, walking, balancing or adjusting to every slightest change in position.

Flat foot may arise from bad posture throughout the body—such as round shoulders and knock knees.

A tired unhealthy or weak child, or one who is being continuously ogleaned from bad teeth or tonsils, is apt to slouch about all the time and so to develop flat foot.

A long-continued local strain may also produce flat foot, by exhausting muscles. Examples of local strain are rapid increase in body weight, prolonged standing, especially in a faulty attitude; incorrect use of the feet in walking, ill-fitting or ill-supporting footwear, corns and other sore spots on the feet which lead to bad walking and standing, and any kind of deformity.

Pain is chiefly felt across the middle of the foot and up the calf.

—and New England Farmers can Make MORE Millions

WHY will it be a surprise to almost everyone who reads this to learn here and now the official fact . . . that the farms of New England produce FOUR HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS WORTH of marketable merchandise EVERY YEAR?

Partly, because New England began "making farms for granted" about three hundred years ago . . . Principally, because the agriculturalists, orchardists, poultrymen, dairymen, and farmers, themselves, scarcely realize as yet how . . . and how much . . . their own total farm production, plus that of all their New England neighbors, can add to the economic wealth and potential resources of these states that have become famous the-country-over for years in other forms of enterprise!

FARMERS' OPPORTUNITY

Four hundred million dollars worth, total annual farm production in New England! In spite of this respectable annual volume of production, the real surprising fact is that New England actually has to spend other hundreds of millions elsewhere to get enough farm-grown products to supply the primary daily needs of its own prosperous population. Here's a spectacular opportunity for New England farmers to develop better marketing methods and still greater production.

Two years ago, with the co-operation of the Commissioners of Agriculture in the six New England states, the New England Council's Agricultural Committee was responsible for the adoption of the "New England Farm Marketing Program." Since then, the leading New England farmers and farm organizations have met annually for mutual counsel and co-operation in the New England Farm Marketing Conferences. Five of the six New England states during 1927 enacted laws creating authority for the establishment of uniform grades and standards under which the quality products of New England farms may be marketed with definite advantages for both producer and consumer. The extension of power-service into rural areas has been expedited. Notably beneficial improvements have been brought about by studies of milk-marketing conditions in every New England state, and the BENEFITS FOR YOU, TOO!

Whether your major interests be concerned with dairy products, vegetables, poultry products, fruits, tobacco, or maple syrup, the first thing to do is to get yourself and your agricultural organizations to which you may belong, to grow with definite plans for progress by consulting and co-operating with the New England Council.

Agriculture is a basic industry. Its dependable local food supplies are essential to all our other industries. The success and prosperity of these interested in agriculture is indeed to all other lines of business. If we can add millions more to the total annual New England farm production, it will benefit all New England —and you.

Within an overnight ride from Boston live 15% of the total population of the United States. These people prefer native farm products standardized and graded. They know that a short journey from farm to market leaves natural freshness, appetizing qualities and nutritive values unimpaired.

The New England Council is now developing comprehensive plans for the general improvement of agricultural conditions throughout New England. Write to the Agricultural Committee for detailed information. For a summary of all N. E. Council activities, ask for the N. E. C. 1928 Blue Book.

STOLEN LOVE

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Author of "The SECRET STUDIO"

Will Any Man Love Girl With a Past?

CHAPTER 26.

AUNT EVVIE, having closed the door, advanced to the mirror with the stiff black lace hat, with its wobbly wired up rose. "Just like the young men of today. No patience. Want you to be on the move. Well, he's all right, Joan. You've done well for yourself."

Aunt Evvie studied her in the mirror, deliberately and thoroughly. "You have changed, Joan," she said at last. "I hope you aren't going to get nerves, like Bube."

"No—oh no—I'm not nervous Aunt Evvie."

"Oh yes, you are. Do not take me for a fool? What is it, Josh—you haven't been fool enough to think about that mechanic to anybody, have you?"

"No, I—I never told anybody—" "I thought you might. Girls tell all they know sometimes. Well, don't. Do you hear me?"

"Don't what, Aunt Evvie?" Joan's voice was just a whisper, hamed, thin whisper.

"Don't let that young man know above all, keep that mewling old cat f a mother of his off the track." he deep old voice dropped to a ty rumbling stage whisper. "Don't trust er. I could say more, but the best you know the better off you'll be."

Joan clutched her arm. "What do you mean, Aunt Evvie?"

"Nothing. Humph. Nothing pretty soon. I'll get Fanny to fire Maisie."

"You wouldn't do that! Oh Maisie you wouldn't!" Joan cried sharply, to go away with nothing to do but go to afternoon affairs. Seeing the same girls all the time—I couldn't stand it—really I couldn't!" And her eyes were dark and wide, pleading. Pleading with Maisie to let her keep the job. The two girls had kept her in the shop, away from Connie Howard . . . No matter where she was, Connie was always looking at her, Long and searchingly. As if she knew. Connie's dark eyes, round and resentful . . . scouring at her, as if to reassure herself that she was still there . . . that would be . . . if they threw . . . if they ever guessed . . .

"Well—if you feel that way about it, Maisie said. She sighed and picked up the embroidery. A luncheon set for Joan.

Her heart ached. She knew Maisie . . .

When Joan came in with Curtis after the ladies' lunch, now so much her own about her, kissed her cheek. "It's going to rent a little, Johnnie. Don't be so tense. Perhaps you can't quite realize how glad I am that Curtis found you. I—I can't quite realize it, that's all. . . . He was my boy, my little boy so long. But I'm glad he's going to marry you, often. Won't you believe me?"

Now you mark my words, you're safe as long as you use your head. Put let that boy get wind of it, and he'd drop you quicker than a hot cake—just like that—"

"No—Aunt Evvie—no—"

"Oh, yes. I know his kind. Now don't look at me like that. Josh Hastings! I declare you never got that soft streak from the Van Fleets. Since up! What's the matter with you? What do you care for those Irvatows? Bah! He ought to be proud to marry a Van Fleet—under any circumstances."

She patted Joan's shoulder. "I'm ashamed of you. Bunch of nerves. No excuse for it. Well, I must be going. I think there is a little seed pearl bracelet in the bank I'll send you. I'm sorry there isn't more left. I intend you shall have some of the silver and linens for a wedding present. Your third of what mama had."

And still Joan hung her head. Aunt Evvie was tolerant, she had had a good dinner, the visit had amused her. She took Joan's small cold hands in her big warm ones. "Don't be a fool," she said, almost affectionately. "I was always fond of you, girl. I missed you. Well—"

She reached for the door. "Good bye. Brace up. Keep your head."

"I do hope Joan isn't going to be sicky." Mrs. Barstow said when Curtis returned after taking Joan home. She had waited up for him. "Oh, she's all right," he said easily. "Little tired, that's all."

'You Never Imagine Anything,' He Smiled, a Little Coldly

"Yes, but I don't like her pallor. It's unnatural. And you know what Miss Van Fleet said about nerves. urtis you don't know what it would an to have to live with a nervous woman. There's nothing worse. They're always imagining things. Always . . ."

"You never imagine anything," he smiled, a little coldly.

She came and put her white hand on his arm. The old, fluttering movement. "I wish you wouldn't speak to mother that way. I don't do it, dear. You aren't yourself lately. Whenever I go near you—"

"Whenever you speak of her nerves all night. I wish to God you'd be of something else—"

"Curtis!"

"I'm sorry mother—blew up. I'm ther jumpy. Too much fuss. I ly I could call this out, and reply marry her—"

"Promise me you won't do that ellie—promise me you won't."

"Oh well—I won't. I won't spoil our plans, but it's getting on my nerves—that's all. I'm tired."

"Joan set the date," she said "It is she who put it off to June. Don't be so tense. Perhaps you can't quite realize how glad I am that Curtis found you. I—I can't quite realize it, that's all. . . . He was my boy, my little boy so long. But I'm glad he's going to marry you, often. Won't you believe me?"

Now you mark my words, you're safe as long as you use your head. Put let that boy get wind of it, and he'd drop you quicker than a hot cake—just like that—"

"No—Aunt Evvie—no—"

"Oh, yes. I know his kind. Now don't look at me like that. Josh Hastings! I declare you never got that soft streak from the Van Fleets. Since up! What's the matter with you? What do you care for those Irvatows? Bah! He ought to be proud to marry a Van Fleet—under any circumstances."

She patted Joan's shoulder. "I'm ashamed of you. Bunch of nerves. No excuse for it. Well, I must be going. I think there is a little seed pearl bracelet in the bank I'll send you. I'm sorry there isn't more left. I intend you shall have some of the silver and linens for a wedding present. Your third of what mama had."

And still Joan hung her head. Aunt Evvie was tolerant, she had had a good dinner, the visit had amused her. She took Joan's small cold hands in her big warm ones. "Don't be a fool," she said, almost affectionately. "I was always fond of you, girl. I missed you. Well—"

She reached for the door. "Good bye. Brace up. Keep your head."

"I do hope Joan isn't going to be sicky." Mrs. Barstow said when Curtis returned after taking Joan home. She had waited up for him. "Oh, she's all right," he said easily. "Little tired, that's all."

The Hurricane

One Blast From Cupid's Lips Sends the Whole World Into a Turmoil

DRAWN BY Popini

© 1926, by Int'l Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved.

WHEN the curious sailors on Ulysses' ship opened the bag of winds Aeolus had tied up the result was a fierce hurricane. But no one was surprised, for when the god of the winds is angry he knows no control.

But this hurricane, devastating as it was, cannot be compared with the whirlwind caused by Cupid. He purses his tiny mouth and blows . . . and the result . . . in a trice the cyclone is here!

Fair ladies of every description are tossed hither and thither by this seemingly gentle zephyr. For Cupid realizes that to assist their sympathies he must "bow them over." And he has succeeded!

At first these modern maidens think it fun. The ingenious Schemer. Their feet are firmly planted on the ground and their hearts are immune to love. With amused laughter they assert their independence—until the hurricane. Once they have felt the warm breath of love's awakening, all is over.

With shrieks of terror they try to maintain their balance. They cling to the nearest bulwark, but in vain. For once caught in the cyclone they are doomed and the eddy of love is a never-ending circle which holds its victims fast. But not against their will.

For once they experience the delightful thrills of the swift onrush of Cupid they aren't at whether their feet are set in steady ways. They are caught in Love's hurricane, from which there is no escape.

'Tiger Love'; A Thrilling Chapter In Amazing Serial

the same young man was making inquiries of the native ferryman whose boats plied the river Johnita across whose yellow currents could be seen the temple pagoda and glistening white palace of the city of Ahadapur.

And an hour or two later this same lad was presenting himself to the haggard, faced young engineer in charge of the building of the railroad bridge ordered by Rajah Kamkura-Din, ruler of the principality.

And what he reported seemed to be of great value to the tall, square-shouldered Sahib, for he rewarded the brown messenger with a great many rupees, a fine white ponyee suit of clothes and even a pith helmet such as are worn by the British and others of the superior race.

And it happened that when the shrewd young man returned to the village where other youths and old women still discussed the beautiful dancer who had so barely escaped the teeth of a tiger on the last night of the spring dances, he was warmly greeted by Mahjl, the high priest. The latter promptly took away half his rupees but generously permitted him to retain the ponyee suit and pith helmet.

While these later occurrences were in the making, Rosita had regained a bit of her strength; Nigili was very gentle with her and even Patrim Gad rejoiced and smiled upon the girl.

"Thou art still weak, my child, from the sickness," the old woman told her. "Thou must add yen a few days. Then we will go on our way, even as before."

Rosita smiled weakly.

Her oval face was paler than ever. She had barely the strength to sit up for the light fare which the old woman brought her.

"Ele quiet, now, my daughter," Nigili told her. "And dream sweet dreams. For the rains have passed for the time, and we will all be happy."

And obediently, the girl rested quietly, and dreamed.

But her dreams were curious now. The remembrance of the terrible night upon the jungle trail when she had listened to the dread words of the two old people became dim. It wonder if I really danced that night and if the fiery really leapt at me?" she asked herself more and more. She was in half sleep, half wakefulness. All the life about her seemed unreal.

Only the things she saw when she closed her eyes appeared actual.

In those dreams she seemed to be dancing as a child, running through sylvan glades. Tall trees and broad green stretches of blue green grass seemed all about her.

She fancied herself dressed not as the native children of her race. Instead, she seemed dressed in white, with little shoes such as she had once seen English children wearing when she had danced in the market place at Kurka, long on the sea.

And, as she danced, she seemed to have a companion, a boy with white skin and gray eyes.

It was all very strange to her, in that she could not join his sports as he wished her to do.

Yet still he was patient; together they played. There was a great brown dog—not like the barking mongrels of the native towns, but a great, romping dog as big as she—games with her. She could pull his bunny tail and tug at his ears and he would laugh at her with his tongue.

Now and then, when she awakened, she found Nigili near her couch, she would hear her crying.

"I have such curious fancies when I sleep," she would say. "I seem another person than myself I wonder why that is."

The old woman would lean forward with sharp, searching looks and ask: "What didst thou dream?"

And something within her, outside her conscious will, would prompt her to say: "I do not remember now."

But she did remember all too vividly—those haunting dreams.

And during other waking hours when the old woman was preparing a meal for Patrim, the girl would talk to herself softly. She was whispering English words which she had dreamed!

In these conscious moments, as she sat up on her couch she began to remember an aching in her heart which had been forgotten during the illness. For long she could not fathom her emotion.

"I remember now," she suddenly said one afternoon as she gazed through the window at the waving fronds of the palm trees. And she began to weep.

"Why art thou tearful, my daughter?" asked Nigili.

But again she answered, this time with knowing deceit.

"I do not remember."

Yet again she remembered.

And this time she recalled many things which it were better for a poor, dancing native girl to forget.

She remembered the handsome white hunter who had shot the tiger and bore her so gently to the house of Mahjl, the high priest.

She remembered that even in the dim light of flickering oil lamps within that simple abode she had seen that he had gray eyes. She remembered his smile, as he answered by the doorway.

And she remembered the little new words she had scribbled, in a language she had almost forgotten, on the flyleaf torn from a missionary's Bible, and thrown crumpled to the floor.

Even now, she remembered those three words written with such difficulty: "I love you."

Joan Held Out Her Hands And They Clung Together

It was her first real welcome. The first time she had said John nie. Her first word of love.

Joan held out her hands, blindly They clung together.

Curtis caught, still with their arms entwined His face shone with happiness. The words he had come to say were forgotten. He closed out, leaving the two women he loved together. The newspaper with the glaring headline was crumpled in his hand.

So it was the next day before Joan heard the news. Connie Howard was married. Eloped with a man, Harrison Creely—nobody at was. No one had ever heard Harrison Creely before.

"I hope she will be happy," Joan said.

Francina and the girls just laughed.

Stubborn Cough Quickly Ended by Famous Recipe

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of checking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that usually follow the "flu."

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed, "sore" membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the phlegm, stops the tickling in the throat, and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, but refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Beauty's Face Wash

CREAM OF MAGNESIA

Better than Soap or Cold Cream

Science has discovered that cream of magnesia beautifies the skin to the same degree that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach. This is because the properties of the skin are acid. Doctors treat the acid inside the body with milk of magnesia, and now doctors are getting amazing results in banishing complexion troubles the same way. Many their patients cleanse their faces with cream of magnesia. They say many New York doctors recommend it instead of soap or cold cream to their patients, their wives and nurses. It reduces enlarged pores to the finest, smoothest texture, almost as if by magic. Being astringent, it drives away the tell-tale lines of age, you will marvel at the effect of your first facial massage. It refreshes the skin so wonderfully that any woman over twenty-five at once looks at least five years younger. It's marvelous how easily magnesia dissolves blackheads, corrects oily skin and clears the face of pimples. It changes dark, dingy looking skin into a fair, white at once and fades out freckles better than a bushel of lemons.

And, because it is so mild mothers use it to bathe infants. It certainly is a blessing to tired, sensitive skins that soap so easily irritates and wrinkles. Not being a cold cream it can not grow fat on the face.

It removes make-up and extracts impurities deep-set in the pores better than soap or cold cream. Just test it on those clogged nose pores that stand out so boldly. Or, try it on your hands or neck to lighten that dark skin caused by exposure.

Until now cream of magnesia was used only by New York doctors' wives and nurses. So, only the large druggists like Liggett's have it in stock. It's in two sizes, fifty cents and one dollar. To get genuine cream of magnesia, ask for Dunton's Facial Magnesia.

with border and cuffs of nutting. The striking geometric design worked in black, violet, blue and several shades of tan.

Lingerie Keeps Its Summer Tan and appears in a variety of brown shades running from pale beige to a deep cocoa color. Night robes, combinations, bandeau sets, short bloomers are all to be found in these new tints. A nightie of beige has its yoke of cream lace, while its uneven hemline, describing an upward trend at front and dipping in the back, makes it all the more attractive.

Mailing whoopee with the negligee mode, a pair of bedroom mules is made up in scintillating silver sequins. They are lined with pink satin, and the added attraction of a high heel and strap at the heel, is quite full of the modern.

MISS MARION DAHL

Know Her?

You ought to know this lovely New York City girl because her blonde beauty has been displayed on so many magazine covers. She's Marion Dahl, 35 Clarkson St., Brooklyn. Artists say she's a "type." They fairly rave over her delicate flesh tints and the golden glory of her hair.

Miss Dahl says: "Everyone I know, tells me how wonderful my hair looks, nowadays. I don't feel like it's a personal compliment, however; I take it more as a compliment to the method I'm using to care for it. It's the rage among girls now in New York. All you do is put a little Danderine on your brush each time you use it. My hair was wiry and hard to keep in place, but Danderine makes it soft and easy to dress and holds it like I arrange it, for hours! My scalp fairly tingles with vigor after I use it, and it keeps my head so clean I don't need a shampoo half so often. It brings out the color of my hair marvelously, making it fairly glisten!"

Every application of Danderine tones and refreshes your scalp. It removes the oily film from each strand and makes dull, stringy hair gleamy, soft and easily manageable. It dissolves dandruff and keeps it out of your hair. It isn't sticky or oily. It doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 35c bottles.

AUCTION BRIDGE

by WILBUR C. WHITEHEAD

The World's Greatest Authority

THE FOUR-CARD TAKEOUT

To bid a four-card major suit originally is one thing, to bid it as a takeout of partner's no trump bid is quite another. While experts will take out a partner's no trump bid with any major suit strong enough to bid originally, and while a four-card suit such as AKQx without a side trick or an AKxx with a side trick in a sound original bid, it has been demonstrated conclusively that a four-card suit, however sound as an original bid, is not sound as a take-out bid with normal distribution.

A takeout of a no trump bid to be justifiable should be in the nature of a forward and not a backward step toward game. Just a four-card suit however strong, cannot reasonably be regarded as offering a better chance than no trump for game, nor as good a course unless there is some factor of distribution to be taken into account.

The quiet in of there is probably the one upon which the greatest difference of opinion exists. The question would be simplified if a player when holding a singleton or when void of a suit, would not bid no trump initially if able to make a suit bid, nor leave a no trump bid in with a like holding.

If it is justifiable to open the bidding with a four-card suit rather than with no trumps, when holding a singleton or when void of a suit it is equally justifiable and as important for the partner of the no trump bidder to take out with a four-card suit under like conditions, regardless of whether the suit is a major or minor, provided he hold sufficient top strength in the suit, or in the suit and hand, to place the takeout above any question of being from weakness.

Thus the four-card takeout should be based upon distribution and not upon the intrinsic merit of the bid. If following suits takeout partner is able to rebid his no trump well and good if not, then there should exist no good reason for passing if not a better one, with a suit as trumps.

3-MINUTE JOURNEYS

By TEMPLE MANNING

TODAY we are in Cape Town, South Africa, for the purpose of studying the native problem there. To do this, it might be wise to realize the divisions of the natives themselves.

The Hamitic tribes, including the Zulus, are the highest in intelligence. Then come the Hottentots, or farm laborers, and, thus the Bushmen. Of course, there are many half-castes, and these present a problem in themselves, because, as they do, to neither side, and being filled with ambition and of sufficient intelligence to take their places in the white civilization.

Only recently have the natives had an opportunity to receive an education. It is a treat to visit one of their schools, and to see how eagerly each pupil pursues his studies. They jump at every opportunity that presents itself for advancement and are literally insatiable.

Even at this time, however, in spite of the strides forward, the natives are under strict rules and are treated almost as if they were children. There is a rigid curfew enforced, no man being permitted out at night after a specified time without a pass from his employer. The mine workers are forced to live in compounds, their wives not stay at home, where they bring up the families and attend to the crops.

CORRECT MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please give me the correct form for accepting a formal engraved invitation to a wedding? It is to be a church wedding in a distant town.

1. Is it correct to have the present sent to the bride's home at once? The wedding takes place in two weeks.

2. I'll not ask for criticism of my letter paper as I know it is not the best, but it is the best I can afford. I shall appreciate any other criticism of my letter though.

IRENE.

THE bride demands a formal third person acknowledgment:

Miss Irene Dalhousie accepts with pleasure
Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wells' kind invitation for Tuesday, the 31st of May,
at five o'clock.

(If the invitation is to the church ceremony only, it is not necessary to acknowledge it. The form I gave is for answering an invitation to the reception.)

2. Yes.

3. Indeed, your letter paper is just the kind I approve of—the best early for the amount that we can afford.

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

The Boston Evening American will pay $1 for published smart sayings. Address "Smart Sayings," Boston Evening American.

Daddy was driving the car in a way that not mama's gust and she bailed him out. Little Billy, aged four, from the back seat, chimed in, "Mama, why don't you get a car with two steering wheels and then you can both drive?"

JOHN: 1—When being introduced, simply say "How do you do?"

2—It is customary for a man to shake hands when introduced to another man. When introduced to a woman, he takes his cue from her. If she extends her hand, he takes it quickly, otherwise he makes no motion to shake hands with her.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up your digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All Druggists.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. Use the 10c.

EVERYTHING'S "strawberries in January," these wonderful days!

Everything's out of season—from love to asparagus!

The petting starts before the engagement; the romance is over before the wedding; and the life-battle begins before the honeymoon is ended.

The divorce decree comes so quickly after the marriage certificate that we get them mixed up in the mails. It would save time and trouble to print the separation agreement on the back of the marriage license.

We know so much about life at twenty that by twenty-five we are beginning to feel almost senile and at twenty-one if there is a new thrill left in all the world for us.

We have read and heard so much about "sex" by the time we are sixteen, that all the stardust has been wiped out of our eyes, and we couldn't cover any man with enough new illusions to make him look like a "Prince Charming."

• • •

We buy our fur coats and velvet gowns in August and begin putting on our invisible stockings and Palm Beach clothes right after Christmas.

We go South in order to enjoy our Summer weather in Winter—and go North in order to be able to wear our Winter furs in July. We save shivering when we should be perspiring—and perspiring when we ought to be shivering.

We announce our engagements to our next husband before we have started our divorce action against our current husband. And we begin dickering for a new model car or a new model wife before the freshness has worn off the old one!

• • •

We begin our intensive love-making before we have gone through our kindergarten flirtations or our calf-love before we know the rudimentary meaning of the word "LOVE."

• • •

And then, in our Indian Summer, we long to go back and find a real boy-and-girl Spring romance!

• • •

And it's all about as sensible and appetizing as having a seven-course dinner for breakfast and coffee and toast for dinner. It's all as flavorless and innocuous as "forced fruit." We are a nation of "hot-house-grape eaters"! Yet the real joy and sweetness of anything on earth, from strawberries to love, consists in having it IN SEASON, when it is ripe and sweet and has all the natural FLAVOR!

FAMOUS LOVERS

By COZETTE DOUGLASS

THIS romance of the fisher maid and the baronet reads so much like a fairy tale that it almost taxes the imagination to the utmost.

Agnes was born in Marblehead, Massachusetts, the daughter of hard-working parents. Evidently she was a throw-back to some aristocratic strain, for her beauty has been likened to a jewel gleaming in her sordid surroundings.

The collector of the port of Boston was Sir Charles Henry Frankland, who had been appointed to the post by the king. In contrast to the majority of those in high position, Sir Charles was beloved by the New England settlers, for his sympathetic attitude toward them, and as a consequence he was tremendously popular.

It was a far cry from the aristocratic atmosphere of Boston to the lowly fisher huts of Marblehead, but business is business, and in his travels Sir Charles was ordered to be called to Marblehead—and his fate. Arriving there, he stopped at the inn and Agnes rose from her knees, where she had been scrubbing the floor, to serve him. How the Fates must have smiled at this chance meeting which was to change the entire path of life for them both. The impression which Agnes made on Sir Charles was so great that he made frequent trips thereafter to Marblehead, and eventually persuaded the girl's parents to allow him to take her to Boston to be educated.

Here she was transformed, . . . as a humble Cinderella to a lady of culture. The best teachers were provided for her and she was well-groomed. She showed a surprising aptitude for her studies, and before very long one would never have recognised the drudge in the lovely butterfly which emerged. No efforts were spared to bring out every talent which she possessed.

Naturally, these two thrown so much together, fell deeply in love, but Sir Charles could not step down from his high position to marry the girl of his choice.

The inevitable happened, and soon Agnes' home was frowned upon in the best circles.

Finally, Sir Charles took Agnes to England to endeavor to obtain the parental consent to their marriage. This failed, and they went to Lisbon. Here they were caught in the maelstrom of the revolution. Sir Charles and his heroes were buried beneath the ruins of a building, and Agnes, hearing his cries, prevailed upon bystanders to rescue him. They did, and swathed in bandages and worried for fear he might never get over his injuries, Sir Charles threw all obstacles to the wind and married Agnes.

Immediately, the attitude of those who had looked down on her changed. She was received and made much of by his parents and given the place in society she so richly deserved.

This is one romance which turned out happily—just like the fairy tales we used to read. And truly it is one in real life. But love is one thing that cannot be denied and recognises neither station nor personages.

Mystery Girl Prize to Aid Fund

Those readers of the Boston Evening American who have vainly sought the "Mystery Girl," must have been surprised if they were among the audience at the Majestic Theater last night.

Between the acts the "Mystery Girl" appeared on the stage and greeted several of those to whom she spoke during the past week while going about Beacon Hill incognito.

Her appearance was a surprise to many persons who have hunted for the girl throughout the city without any success.

Several of those to whom she had spoken were her guests at this performance of "The Silent House" and admitted that they remembered the particular query or comment addressed to them.

But the best part of the "Mystery Girl's" clevermess in avoiding recognition was the fact that the $100 prize, being unclaimed, was turned over to the Silent House Company to the Boston Evening American Christmas Fund, its first donation for this season's gift to the needy.

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defence.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

Fraught With Danger

A Walk Across Massachusetts Avenue at Boylston Street

If any citizen is in doubt of the meaning or seriousness of Mayor Nichols' demand for a bridge across the Charles River at Dartmouth Street he might take his stand in some busy hour at the intersection of Boylston Street and Massachusetts Avenue.

If there is one busy crossing more hazardous than all the others, especially to the pedestrian whose hair is gray and whose step is heavy, it is "Mass. Ave." and Boylston.

No one has counted the pedestrians, so far as we have observed, but according to the Miller McClintock survey the number of VEHICLES using these crossings between the hours of 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. on a typical day is 19,524.

The Mayor has intimated his willingness to go to the Legislature with plans for a new bridge IF the railroads agree upon a Back Bay Union Station.

Such a depot IS desirable, the additional bridge appears to be a necessity.

The Boylston Street, Newbury Street, Huntington Avenue, Massachusetts Avenue and Kendal Square associations should continue to urge its construction.

The GOOD Nurse Worth Every Penny of It

Distinguished members of the American College of Surgeons, holding their annual congress in Boston, discuss the "nursing situation" without mentioning a phase of the subject which puzzles the average head of the average middle-class family.

In 1890, one surgeon said, the output of the nursing schools was "only a handful"; this year, 20,000 trained young women join the ranks. Yet, according to Dr. Mary A. Burgess, the "average qualifications of the present-day graduate nurse are NOT equal to those of the nurse of a generation ago."

From the nurses, through the woman editor of their monthly magazine, came the reply that "so long as you"—meaning the surgeons—"handle nursing on what we nurses call the 'factory system,' qualified nurses will not return to the hospitals."

There is one nurse in the United States to every 590 inhabitants. Before long the ratio will be one nurse to every 300. Dr. Charles H. Mayo, famous Minnesota surgeon, wishes there were one to every 25.

Dr. Mayo is not much concerned because, as reported, "girls are going into nursing without a high school education." For his part, he prefers a student who is "not burned out intellectually." DOES high school burn out the intellect? How?

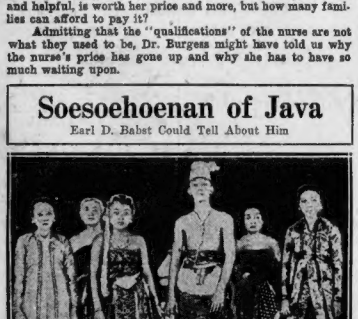
Not one word here, you see, about the high cost of being sick.

The complaint of average families in average neighborhoods is that the nurse costs too much and demands too much care and attention. In Boston, she is paid $6 or $7 a day, or from $42 to $49 a week. A GOOD nurse, kindly, efficient and helpful, is worth her price and more, but how many families can afford to pay it?

Admitting that the "qualifications" of the nurse are not what they used to be, Dr. Burgess might have told us why the nurse's price has gone up and why she has to have so much waiting upon.

Soesoehoenan of Java

Earl D. Babst Could Tell About Him



A ROYAL WEDDING IN JAVA

Strange, interesting country is far-off Soerakarta, where the Soesoehoenan "rules" and imagines himself a king. He and his people are actually ruled by a Dutch Governor, representing the Queen of Holland. Holland owns the country.

This picture shows a wedding in the royal family of the Soesoehoenan. The groom, very "low-necked" as to costume, goes through elaborate ceremonies and so does his wife, before the wedding. You see them in this picture holding hands affectionately. That's ONE thing that seems to happen everywhere.

The costumes of this bridal party represent all that is grand, luxurious and mysterious, in the highest circles of Java. Every ornament has its particular meaning. Not so long ago, everybody in this royal circle, including even the two cunning little girls sitting in front, might have put to death any one of the common run of the Javanese on a mere whim.

That can't be done now, for the Governor from Holland

New York Day by Day

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—New York has been glorifying the racketeering gangster into the absurd proportions of a popular idol. His silence when caught is ballooned into a code of honor. Every policeman knows the gangster is a rat and squealer at heart.

He does not squeal simply because he fears the deadly penalty. Give him air tight protection and he will always tell all. His first thought is to save himself. He never goes to kill alone but with a pack and he rarely gives his foe the slightest of sporting chances.

The gangster's method of murder is to surround a lone and helpless enemy with automobiles filled with machine guns, slaughter him and race away. The racketeer also displays his craven cowardice by exacting tribute by threats from small merchants who have been in America scarcely long enough to know the language.

Even the bravest will not go on a killing expedition without priming themselves with drugs and liquor. When one of the gang dies with his boots on the funeral becomes a pageant of flowers and a mile long parade of carriages.

This mawkish sentimentality is inspired by fear. Those who fail to send flowers or attend the last rites know they are inviting the underworld frown. The late Frank Yale made those he ruled by terror buy a brand of cigars named for him. They were three-centers selling for 20 cents each.

And the shopkeeper who did not buy regularly soon found his shop shot up and his trade driven away. All through the East Side merchants who are barely able to make a living must buy tickets weekly o "phoney benefits," the proceeds of which are spent lavishly on Broadway by these "brave" racketeers.

The merchant who is strongly intrenched and fights back is seldom molested more than once. The racketeer fears the strong and preys on the weak. Once the legend about him grows too big and he lifts his head above his mentors, they "l-ke him for a ride."

GANGLAND has furnished picturesque names for members. Such as Monk Eastman, Kid Twist, Johnny Spanish, Little Augie, Kitty the Horse, The Littwack, Kid Dropper, Midget Louie, Louis the Lump and Ash Faced Jazy.

MAYOR WALKER'S home, tucked away in the idyllic quiet of St. Luke's pl., is in one of the most restful spots in all New York. The mayor's house is No. 6, one of a solid block of similar brick houses with stone steps, basement dining rooms and small lawns hedged in by iron fences. The houses face a public playground across the street. In front of the mayor's home are the customary mayoralty lamps, and directly opposite is a police booth with a uniformed officer on constant duty. The mayor's neighbors are mostly working men and women with a sprinkling of the artist type of Greenwich Village. He also maintains an apartment uptown. His telephone exchange, incidentally, is "Walker."

MORE then 200 hotel awnings were destroyed by fire this summer, due to careless tossers of lighted matches cigar and cigarette ends out of windows. And two gentlemen walked along the streets with their hats smouldering from the same carelessness. It is confusing to find your hat afire. I can speak freely for I was one of them.

THERE are some 50 professional touts making a good living along Broadway as race tipsters. They maintain offices and furnish a daily service for $5 a day or $20 a week. Telegrams of their choices for the day are sent shortly before post time. Of course, if they had ability to pick winners they would not be conducting tipping bureaus, but some of them have been operating their sucker game for more than 25 years.

A STAGE box is zero in comfort under any circumstances. Due to a late arrival, I was ushered into one the other evening whose sole occupant was an imperious lady with a dog collar of pearls, a lorgnette and the dignity of a swan on the placid waters of a lake. I sat cowering in mouselike silence in a darkened corner. Shortly before the curtain fell she turned and inquired sharply: "Alonzo, where the hell you been?" She thought I was her husband. I'm unequal to such situations and after a foolish whinneying laugh I sneaked back among the S. R. O. oysterbeds, where I was more at home.

Soesoehoenan of Java

would say, "No, we need them to WORK."

Some magazine editor should ask Earl D. Babst to tell how these Javanese do work, and how they live. Not long ago, visiting the sugar-producing countries of the world, to learn about sugar production at first hand, Mr. Babst visited Java and on his return told friends interesting things about the gentle natives, and the intensity with which they cultivate and HARVEST THEIR CROPS.

For instance, contrast the methods of gathering grain crops of the United States and Java.

Here we have machines drawn by tractors, able to cut dozens of acres in a day. You look with pity upon a man swinging a scythe by hand power.

In Java they haven't even scythes, but mow and cut the grass or grain with little sharp knives, bending over, cutting one handful of grass at a time.

And still they live, and they are quite contented.

If you produced modern agricultural machinery among them, you probably would frighten the gentle Javanese out of their wits.

That happened in Russia when the International Harvester Company first sent agricultural machinery with snorting engines to work on the wide Russian fields.

Mr. Harold McCormick tells how his company's thoughtful agent, to reassure the ignorant, superstitious peasants, persuaded their priest of the Orthodox Greek Church, to stand in the field close to the engine when it started, and telling the peasants there was nothing to fear.

The good priest did so, but the moment the engine started with a terrible snort, he, the reassuring one, was first over the fence and out of the field.

CREATION OF LIFE DEEP MYSTERY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE insoluble mystery is the creation of life. At one time scientists supposed they had accomplished it.

But other scientists came along and showed that their tubes were not clean or their water not boiled. Minute living organisms had spoiled their experiments.

Nobody has yet succeeded in making a living thing out of what was not already alive. All the Frankenstein stories are pure imagination.

Dr. Victor Coffman, research authority, stated the other day that in his opinion we must always stop short of the development of synthetic life in the complex form of man.

Science has done and is doing many wonderful things. The towsled-headed scientist was formerly sneered at as a useless and superfluous member of society. The soldier, the priest and the business man were supposed to be the big boys of the family, the scientist an idle dreamer.

Nowadays the scientist bids fair to be the most important man among us. By his means it is said that every citizen of the United States has command of powers enough to say that he has 60 servants.

The scientist has shown us how to run our trains and trolleys, to use the telegraph and telephone, to light our houses, to alter the dyeing and perfumery business, and even to wage the most deadly kind of war with gases. He seems to be, in the American language of the street, "the candy kid."

As Dr. Coffman says, science may harness the sun to produce sugar, may turn the waste of the present year into the foods of the future, may apply life to living organisms and to aid in the growth of others, but it cannot produce life.

Science has made great strides in the production of fuel. When our supplies of petroleum fail we shall be able to use liquid fuels made by the distillation of coal. If coal fails us we can make alcohol from cellulose or from water gas.

In England and France great strides are being made in searching for a chemical agent that will store up the heat of the sun for us.

They have already collected minor quantities of sugar from the light of the sun's rays.

But what life is, whence it comes and whither it goes is as much of a conundrum now as it was in the days of the cave man.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

PEGGY'S mad. Here's the why—

Dear Elsie:

Won't you please help me? I've just passed my 35th birthday and Mother pulled one of those terrible family reunion dinners for me. It there's anything I despise its relatives, particularly when they won't mind their own business. Mine won't. As soon as we were seated the regular conversation began. So and so just got married somebody else was engaged—WHEN WAS I GOING TO GET MARRIED? Surely I couldn't stay single all my life.

No, of course not. Now there was A —— who was such a nice boy. Why didn't I encourage him? And so on and on, far into the night.

Every time I meet any of them it's the same thing, Elsie, and it's getting my goat. Why should I be forced into marriage just because people think I should be a Mrs. instead of a Miss.

MUST A GIRL MARRY NOWADAYS?

Personally I don't care for marriage. I prefer my freedom, my job and my single blessedness. Am I abnormal in this? Haven't times changed so much for women that marriage isn't any longer necessary unless they fall desperately in love?

Please write a snappy article on this, Elsie. A lot of us girls need one to help us in our fight against these old-fashioned ideas.

PEGGY ADAMS.

Yes, my dear, times have certainly changed for ladies. We can pay our rent now, hook our own dresses and order our own moonshine. We no longer have to marry a bank balance. But—

There's something much more vital to a woman's happiness than a bank balance, little girl. There's that emotional balance of head and heart which every woman needs for her maturity. I do not honestly believe that any woman can find that balance save through marriage.

You do not yet realize that you need that balance. Life is a-hum and a-whirl with new experiences, and you are caught in its dizzy riot. It's enough, as yet, to watch the show—to play. But some day soon you will awake and find that playtime isn't enough. You won't fit into the play world any longer. You will want to go into the greater adventures. You will want that power and charm and understanding which come to the ripened woman.

BUT YOU'LL NEVER KNOW WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT UNTIL YOU MARRY, PEGGY.

"Pooh," you cry. "I don't believe you." A man doesn't matter so much. But living with that man does matter tremendously. The mysterious mingled irritation and delight that come when you're forced to share your daily life with another nature—the adjustments to a different code—the compromises—the unconscious conflict, the conscious companionship—even the quarrels—all these experiences matter tremendously. They are the processes that bring a woman's spirit to its maturity. Without them she remains incomplete.

"But suppose she picks the wrong man? Suppose he doesn't make her happy?"

Strangely enough, that doesn't matter greatly, Peggy. Happiness isn't have as important as you now think it is. The great thing is to live, to live abundantly.

THAT'S WHY EVEN AN UNHAPPY MARRIAGE IS BETTER THAN NO MARRIAGE AT ALL FOR A WOMAN.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

A comfortable house is a great source of human happiness. It ranks immediately after health and a good conscience.—Smith.

Anger is momentary madness, so control your passion or it will control you. —Horace.

Were not this desire of fame very strong, the difficulty of obtaining it, and the danger of losing it when obtained, would be sufficient to deter a man from so vain a pursuit.—Addison.

The brave and bold persist even against fortune; the timid and cowardly rush to despair through fear alone. —Tacitus.
